

A woman with long dark hair, wearing a white, flowing dress, is shown from the chest down. Her hands are tied behind her back with a thick, light-colored rope. She is looking down, and her expression is somber. The background is a textured, mottled brown and gold, suggesting a dramatic or historical setting. The lighting is soft, highlighting the folds of her dress and the texture of the rope.

expresses the human need to confront and overcome death is central to both. It describes how the meanings of sacrifice change over time but never quite disappear. The book also explains why comedy but tragedy in particular decay and how some of their functions are taken over by reality TV and the blockbuster movie. The prime focus is on plays and how they reflect and respond to the great changes like the rise of Christianity the Enlightenment and the coming of mass society. But a close study of these plays also reveals a number of continuities centred around sacrifice which illuminate aspects of human psychology and social organisation.
