Alcohol: No Ordinary Commodity Professor Department of Public Health Sciences Thomas F Babor, Thomas F. Babor, Professor Shore & Whariki Research Centre College of Health Sally Casswell, Sally Casswell, Kathryn Graham, Scientist Emeritus Institute for Mental Health Policy Research Kathryn Graham, Senior Researcher Shore and Whariki Research Centre College of Health Taisia Huckle, Associate Professor National Drug Research Institute Michael Livingston, Esa Österberg, Jürgen Rehm, Distinguished Professor Centre for Alcohol Policy Research Robin Room, Research Professor Department of Alcohol Tobacco and Drugs Ingeborg Rossow, 2023-02-28 Alcohol No Ordinary Commodity is a collaborative effort by an international group of addiction scientists to improve the linkages between addiction science and alcohol policy. It presents in a comprehensive practical and readily accessible form the accumulated scientific knowledge on alcohol research that has a direct relevance to the development of alcohol policy on local national and international levels. It provides an objective basis on which to build relevant policies globally and informs policy makers who have direct responsibility for public health and social welfare. By locating alcohol policy primarily within the realm of public health, this book draws attention to the growing tendency for governments both national and local to consider alcohol misuse as a major determinant of ill health and to organize societal responses accordingly. The scope of the book is comprehensive and global. The authors describe the conceptual basis for a rational alcohol policy and present new epidemiological data on the global dimensions of alcohol misuse. The core of the book is a critical review of the cumulative scientific evidence in seven general areas of alcohol policy: pricing and taxation; regulating the physical availability of alcohol; modifying the environment in which drinking occurs; drinking driving; countermeasures; marketing restrictions; primary prevention programs in schools and other settings; and treatment and early intervention services. The final chapters discuss the current state of alcohol policy in different parts of the world and describe the need for a new approach to alcohol policy that is evidence based, global and coordinated. A valuable resource for those involved in addiction science and drug policy as well as those in the wider fields of public health, health policy, epidemiology and practising clinicians.

Alcohol, 2010 From a public health perspective, alcohol is a major contributor to morbidity and mortality and impacts on many aspects of social life. This text describes advances in alcohol research with direct relevance to the development of effective policies at local, national and international level.

Alcohol: No Ordinary Commodity Thomas F. Babor, 2010-02-25 Alcohol No Ordinary Commodity Research and Public Policy Second Edition is a collaborative effort by an international group of addiction scientists to improve the linkages between addiction science and alcohol policy. It presents in a comprehensive practical and readily accessible form the accumulated scientific knowledge on alcohol research that has a direct relevance to the development of alcohol policy on local national and international levels. It provides an objective analytical basis on which to build relevant policies globally and informs policy makers who have direct responsibility for public health and social welfare. By locating alcohol policy primarily within the realm of public health this book draws attention to the growing tendency for governments both national and local to consider alcohol misuse as a major determinant of ill health and to organize societal responses accordingly The scope of the book is comprehensive and international The authors describe the conceptual basis for a rational alcohol policy and present new epidemiological data on the global dimensions of alcohol misuse The core of the book is a critical review of the cumulative scientific evidence in seven general areas of alcohol policy pricing and taxation regulating the physical availability of alcohol modifying the environment in which drinking occurs drinking driving countermeasures marketing restrictions primary prevention programs in schools and other settings and treatment and early intervention services The final chapters discuss the current state of alcohol policy in different parts of the world and describe the need for a new approach to alcohol policy that is evidence based realistic and coordinated It will appeal to those involved in both addiction science and drug policy as well as those in the wider fields of public health health policy epidemiology and practising clinicians A companion volume published by Oxford University Press Drug Policy and the Public Good is also available Alcohol and Public Policy Thom Brooks,2016-03-17 Alcohol and its consumption is a major topic for public policy making Growing awareness of alcohol related health problems among the general public has led to high levels of interest in alcohol consumption and its impact on society This innovative collection of new perspectives on this critically important issue is informed by a leading group of international social scientists Topics covered include alcoholism the family minimum pricing paternalistic controls and Socially Responsible Investment programs Together these essays reveal illuminating new insights into how public policy might be improved This book was originally published as a special issue of Contemporary Social Science Alcohol at Work Clive Tobutt,2016-03-23 In the European Union many individuals will partake in drinking a little wine with their lunch or dinner to aid their enjoyment of the meal or as an appetizer for food Alcohol is also a drug of dependence Some individuals will drink too much and some of them will become addicted Access to alcohol binge drinking and younger drinkers can lead to unsafe workplaces absenteeism fraud and criminal behaviour Alcohol at Work is a definitive guide to the problem exploring its nature and scale and providing a complete range of ideas and techniques to help create a policy in the workplace and develop appropriate and effective measures for monitoring and tackling alcohol abuse The key collective message is solve the problem take the alcohol not the person out of the workplace In the UK alone research puts the cost of alcohol abuse in the workplace at 2 billion a year This is a must have reference for human resource occupational health and risk managers as well as those involved in tackling criminal behaviour such as fraud and violence at work resulting from alcohol abuse and addiction Alcohol, Power and Public Health Shane Butler,Karen Elmeland,Betsy Thom,James Nicholls,2017-03-16 In recent years the reduction of alcohol related harm has emerged as a major policy issue across Europe Public health advocates supported by the World Health Organisation have challenged an approach that targets problem drinking individuals calling instead for governments to control consumption across whole populations through a combination of pricing strategies restrictions on retail availability and marketing regulations Alcohol Power and Public Health explores the emergence of the public health perspective on alcohol policy in Europe the strategies alcohol control policy advocates have adopted and the challenges they have faced in the political context of both individual states and the European Union The book provides a historical perspective on the development of alcohol policy in Europe using four case studies Denmark England Scotland and Ireland It explores the relationship between evidence values and power in a key area of political decision making and considers what conditions create or prevent policy change The case studies raise questions as to who sets policy agendas how social problems are framed and defined and how governments can balance public health promotion against both commercial interests and established cultural practices This book will be of interest to academics and researchers in policy studies public health social science and European Union studies
