The Measure of Things David Edward Cooper,2002 Philosophers both western and eastern have long been divided between humanists for whom man is the measure of things and their opponents who claim that there is a way in principle knowable and describable that the world anyway is independent of human perspectives and interests The early chapters of The Measure of Things chart the development of humanism from medieval times through the Renaissance Enlightenment and Romantic periods to its most sophisticated twentieth century form existential humanism Cooper does not identify this final position with that of any particular philosopher though it is closely related to those of Heidegger Merleau Ponty and the later Wittgenstein Among the earlier figures discussed are William of Ockham Kant Herder Nietzsche and William James Having rejected attempts by contemporary advocates of modest or non metaphysical realism to dissolve the opposition between humanism and its absolutist rival Cooper moves on to an adjudication of that rivalry Prompted by the pervasive rhetoric of hubris that the rivals direct against one another he argues in an original manner that the rival positions are indeed guilty of lack of humility Absolutists whether defenders of The Given or scientific realists exaggerate our capacity to ascend out of our engaged perspectives to an objective account of the world Humanists conversely exaggerate our capacity to live without a sense of our subjection to a measure independent of our own perspectives The only escape Cooper maintains from the impasse reached when humanism and absolutism are both rejected lies in a doctrine of mystery There is a reality independent of the human contribution but it is necessarily ineffable Drawing in a novel way upon the Buddhist conception of emptiness and Heidegger's later writings the final chapters defend the notion of mystery distinguish the doctrine advanced from that of transcendental idealism and propose that it is only through appreciation of mystery that measure and warrant may be provided for our beliefs and conduct

From Blavatsky to Krishnamurti: "It is Finished" Al Boag, 2025-09-16 This book highlights some important continuities as well as differences between the teachings of Helena Petrovna Blavatsky 1831-1891 co-founder of the Theosophical Society in 1875 and Krishnamurti Jiddu 1895-1986 the Theosophist who was trained to be the World Teacher Until now very little has been written of the importance to Blavatsky of an esoteric eschatology and Christology and their relation to the secret core of her Path of Initiation the practice of an occult breathless meditation Similarly scholarly research has overlooked the evidence that Krishnamurti eviscerated the secret core of Blavatsky's teaching with his own esoteric interpretation of it which exists in his published work as the camouflaged core of his teaching Offering a fresh appraisal this work draws on careful exploration of the primary source material of Blavatsky and Krishnamurti as well as his Theosophical mentors Annie Besant 1847-1933 and Charles Webster Leadbeater 1854-1934 It will be of particular interest to students and scholars of esotericism new religious movements and the history of religions

The Unraveling of America Allen J.
