

"Letter From a Birmingham Jail"

From 1960 to 1963, Dr. King and his followers continued to organize marches, sit-ins, and demonstrations throughout the South. In 1963 the Birmingham Campaign began with the following goals: (1) desegregation of all lunch counters, restrooms, and drinking fountains in stores and (2) the hiring of Blacks by local business and industry.

On Good Friday, Dr. King led a march in defiance of a court injunction in order to go to jail to demonstrate his commitment. Dr. King was arrested, his 13th arrest in his fight for civil rights.

While in prison, he wrote the famous "Letter From a Birmingham Jail," in response to a published letter written by eight Christian and Jewish clergy who advised African Americans to wait patiently for justice. Dr. King's response outlined in concise terms exactly why African Americans could not wait any longer for their freedom. The letter was so forceful and persuasive copies were circulated and printed all over the world.
