Novel Jerome De Groot, 2009-09-10 The historical novel is an enduringly popular genre that raises crucial questions about key literary concepts fact and fiction identity history reading and writing In this comprehensive focused guide Jerome de Groot offers an accessible introduction to the genre and critical debates that surround it including the development of the historical novel from early eighteenth century works through to postmodern and contemporary historical fiction different genres such as sensational or low fiction crime novels literary works counterfactual writing and related issues of audience value and authenticity the many functions of historical fiction particularly the challenges it poses to accepted histories and postmodern questioning of grand narratives the relationship of the historical novel to the wider cultural sphere with reference to historical theory the internet television and film key theoretical concepts such as the authentic fallacy postcolonialism Marxism queer and feminist reading Drawing on a wide range of examples from across the centuries and around the globe The Historical Novel is essential reading for students exploring the interface of history and fiction Envisionina Asia Jeanette Roan, 2010-05-07 Whereas some other scholars read selected films mainly to illustrate political arguments Roan never loses sight of the particularities of film as a distinctive cultural form and practice Her drive to see cinema as a mechanism of American orientalism results in not just a textual analysis of these films but also a history of their material production and distribution Josephine Lee University of Minnesota Envisioning Asia offers an exciting new contribution to our understandings of the historical developments of American Orientalism Jeannette Roan deftly situates changing cinematic technologies within the context of U S imperial agendas in this richly nuanced analysis of shooting on location in Asia in early 20th century American cinema Wendy Kozol Oberlin College Through her vivid illustration of the role of American cinema in the material visual and ideological production of Asia Jeanette Roan takes the reader on a journey to Asia through a very different route from the virtual travel taken by the viewers of the films she discusses Mari Yoshihara University of Hawai i at Manoa The birth of cinema coincides with the beginnings of U S expansion overseas and the classic Hollywood era coincides with the rise of the United States as a global superpower In Envisioning Asia Jeanette Roan argues that throughout this period the cinema's function as a form of virtual travel coupled with its purported authenticity served to advance America's shifting interests in Asia Its ability to fulfill this imperial role depended however not only on the cinematic representations themselves but on the marketing of the films production histories and in particular their use of Asian locations Roan demonstrates this point in relation to a wide range of productions offering an engaging and useful survey of a largely neglected body of film Not only that by focusing on the material practices involved in shooting films on location that is the actual travels negotiations and labor of making a film she moves beyond formal analysis to produce a richly detailed history of American interests attitudes and cultural practices during the first half of the twentieth century Jeanette Roan is Adjunct Professor of Visual Studies at California College of the Arts and author of Exotic Explorations Travels to Asia and the Pacific
