Ideology and Rhetoric Bożenna Chylińska, 2009-01-14 The discovery of America and its further development into a modern state and a nation are the clear instance of how ideology and rhetoric are entwined and how they can encompass widely disparate viewpoints The essays collected in this book address the topical issues of modern American Studies cultural difference and otherness gender race and ethnicity class and power They represent new texts and contexts approached through the revision reevaluation and reconfiguration of canons thus accommodating the expectations of the heterodox audience Femininity reconsidered an ideology of passing away in contemporary world of technical development race captured within the framework of identity and gender the rhetoric of blackness approached through racial exploitation American conquest ideology revealed in a mission of Manifest Destiny the 20th century assimilation rhetoric in the relations between Native Americans and the US federal government the conservative ideology and apologetic rhetoric of the Antebellum South the critique of the 21st century American legal system the evolution of the presidential rhetoric which today addresses a large heterogeneous audience all these topics impose a transnational interpretation of American culture which developed as a result of the cross cultural transformation of European culture cultures moulded on American soil to finally become a unique reformulation of the very idea of America itself

Hemispheric Indigeneities Miléna Santoro, Erick D. Langer, 2018-11-01 Hemispheric Indigeneities is a critical anthology that brings together indigenous and nonindigenous scholars specializing in the Andes Mesoamerica and

Canada The overarching theme is the changing understanding of indigeneity from first contact to the contemporary period in three of the world's major regions of indigenous peoples Although the terms indio, indigène and indian only exist in Spanish, French and English respectively because of European conquest and colonization indigenous peoples have appropriated or changed this terminology in ways that reflect their shifting self-identifications and aspirations As the essays in this volume demonstrate, this process constantly transformed the relation of Native peoples in the Americas to other peoples and the state This volume's presentation of various factors geographical, temporal and cross-cultural provide illuminating contributions to the burgeoning field of hemispheric indigenous studies Hemispheric Indigenities explores indigenous agency and shows that what it means to be indigenous was and is mutable It also demonstrates that self-identification evolves in response to the relationship between indigenous peoples and the state The contributors analyze the conceptions of what indigeneity meant, means today or could come to mean tomorrow

Grand Theory in Folkloristics Lee

Haring, 2016-09-19 Essays arguing diverse positions on the concept of a grand theory in American folklore Why is there no Grand Theory in the study of folklore Talcott Parsons 1902-1979 advocated grand theory which put the analysis of social phenomena on a new track in the broadest possible terms Not all sociologists or folklorists accept those broad terms some still adhere to the empirical level Through a forum sponsored by the American Folklore Society the diverse answers to the question of such a theory arrived at substantial agreement American folklorists have produced little grand theory One speaker even found all the theory folklorists need in the history of philosophy The two women in the forum Noyes and Mills spoke in defense of theory that is local, apt, suited to the audience and humble the men Bauman and Fine reached for something Parsons might have recognized The essays in this collection developed from the forum presentations defend diverse positions but they largely accept the longstanding concentration in American folkloristics on the quotidian and local

Between Trauma and Memory Neha Soman, B. Padmanabhan, Kaniphat Malhari Kudale, 2025-09-01

This book is a collection of essays covering diverse perspectives within the study of trauma and memory In its compartmentalisation into four sections the book diligently analyses the literary representations of trauma and memory in the micro and macro levels of cultural contexts Analysis of these representations can illuminate societal attitudes toward trauma, memory and healing as well as shed light on larger issues such as war, violence, oppression and injustice and help the readers gain a deeper understanding of the complexities of human emotions, reactions and coping mechanisms The ethical questions discussed in the book also engage with the notions of authenticity and responsibility prompting the readers with a sense of validation and solidarity

Teaching the Transatlantic Eighteenth Century Jennifer Frangos, Cristóbal Silva, 2020-05-15

The central axiom of Teaching the Transatlantic Eighteenth Century is that the classroom functions as a site for research and collaboration not only as a space that reflects the research of individual teacher-scholars but as a generative site to put ideas, theories and methodologies into play Whereas transatlanticism has transformed research practices over the last decade, the present collection is concerned with exploring what this transformation looks like in the classroom and how the classroom continues to shape research practices in the field Contributors address issues such as how the traffic in ideas people and commodities between Europe Africa and the New World are considered in classroom settings how inter and intra departmental collaborations reshape our approaches to teaching the eighteenth century how and why Transatlantic Studies can function as an introduction to college study and how it can help more advanced students to revise their notions of nation place and identity By now there are a number of anthologies available to help instructors determine what transatlantic material to teach but none that engage why and how to teach it or what teaching it can do for us our students and our profession Rather than simply providing reading lists or a collection of anecdotes about lesson plans Teaching the Transatlantic Eighteenth Century emphasizes theorizing critical engagements with interdisciplinary focus on and the transformative potential of Transatlantic Studies The primary market for Teaching the Transatlantic Eighteenth Century is university college and community college professors researchers and students with three specific subgroups 1 Teachers new to Transatlantic Studies Teachers coming to Transatlantic Studies for the first time will find both suggestions for materials or topical units to be integrated into existing courses e g a unit on transatlantic exchange that could figure in an eighteenth century literature survey course and ideas for developing new courses altogether 2 Teachers already teaching and or researching in the field of Transatlantic Studies Such scholars will find material to broaden their approach to familiar courses and subjects inter or cross disciplinary focus new texts successful clusterings of texts or themes or approaches and ideas for team teaching or linking courses with other faculty 3 Teachers involved in Transatlantic Studies programs especially those that focus on contemporary Post WWII context e g at the University of Dundee the University of North Carolina Chapel Hill and the University of Birmingham Teaching the Transatlantic Eighteenth Century will provide historical context for current geopolitical studies perspective on the dynamics and historical and political forces occurring in the eighteenth century and contributing to 19th 20th and 21st century politics nations and paradigms

Weaving Words into Worlds Caroline Durand-Rous, Margot Lauwers, 2023-10-10 Weaving Words into Worlds comes as the third spinoff of the international ecopoetics conference organized in Perpignan in 2016 Reflecting upon how the many stories we tell directly influence the world we live in each of the contributions in this international volume directs our attention to the constant ecopoetic weaving of word to the world at work via the many entanglements between mind matter and meaning whether on a local or a global scale It encapsulates how the words stories and concepts we humans articulate as we try to make sense of the world we inhabit give part of its shape to the web of ecological relations that we depend on for survival It seeks to cast light on the disenchanting and reenchanting powers of stories and poesis in general as stories retain the power to make us either become oblivious to and destroy or to feel and honor the many complex ties between the multitudinous nature cultures intertwined within the fabric of a multispecies world always in the making This book offers a total of fourteen articles written by international scholars in ecocriticism and ecopoetics who by their analyses of literature and or films and the political subtext they thus render visible aim at showing how the study of environmentally minded media may renew our attention to the entangled agencies of the human and the more than human realm Thus this work offers to counter a reproach ecocriticism has often been met with namely the over presence of US scholars and the lack of diversity in subjects in the field since the articles presented provide a wide variety of approaches and topics with examples of UK and Native American literature Polynesian myth graphic novels or haiku In doing so the book expands on the fields of ecocriticism and ecopoetics adding to this branch of study and enriching it with high quality academic studies

Indigenous Women and Feminism Cheryl Suzack, Shari M. Huhndorf, Jeanne Perreault, Jean Barman, 2011-01-01 Can the specific concerns of Indigenous women be addressed by mainstream feminism Indigenous Women and Feminism proposes that a dynamic new line of inquiry Indigenous feminism is necessary to truly engage with the crucial issues of cultural identity nationalism and decolonization particular to Indigenous contexts Through the lenses of politics activism and culture this wide ranging collection crosses disciplinary national academic and activist boundaries to explore deeply the unique political and social positions of Indigenous women A vital and sophisticated discussion these timely essays will change the way we think about modern feminism and Indigenous women

The Tears of Things Peter Schwenger, 2006 We surround ourselves with material things that are invested with memories but can only stand for what we have lost Physical objects such as one's own body situate and define us yet at the same time they are fundamentally indifferent to us The melancholy of this rift is a rich source of inspiration for artists Peter Schwenger deftly weaves together philosophical and psychoanalytical theory with artistic practice Concerned in part with the act of collecting The Tears of Things is itself a collection of exemplary art objects literary and cultural attempts to control and possess things including paintings by Georgia O'Keeffe and Ren Magritte sculpture by Louise Bourgeois and Marcel Duchamp Joseph Cornell's boxes Edward Gorey's graphic art fiction by Virginia Woolf Georges Perec and Louise Erdrich the hallucinatory encyclopedias of Jorge Luis Borges and Luigi Serafini and the corpse photographs of Joel Peter Witkin However these representations of objects perpetually fall short of our aspirations Schwenger examines what is left over debris and waste and asks what art can make of these What emerges is not an art that reassembles but one that questions what it means to assemble in the first place Contained in this catalog of waste is that ultimate still life the cadaver where the subject object dichotomy receives its final ironic reconciliation Peter Schwenger is professor of English at Mount St Vincent University in Halifax Nova Scotia He is the author of Fantasm and Fiction On Textual Envisioning Letter Bomb Nuclear Holocaust and the Exploding Word and Phallic Critiques Masculinity and Twentieth Century Literature

Raven and Crow Ellen W. Williams, 2025-10-14 Ravens and crows both members of the Corvidae family have long captured human imagination Ornithologists have noted their problem solving capabilities but the interest extends beyond science Artists are moved to depict them while backyard bird enthusiasts delight in their antics Found around the world the raven and the crow have inspired thousands of myths legends and fairytales These stories regard corvids as powerful beings with the crow sometimes seen as a witch or a goddess in disguise and the raven portrayed as a creator trickster being The fascination with these birds spans centuries and they are represented in mythology from every corner of the planet This book explores the multi dimensional aspects of ravens and crows they are the subject of scientific research as well as ancient texts and artwork From traditional and contemporary renderings of the birds in art to the wealth of mythology about them the enigmatic nature of the birds remains a point of fascination for many Recent scientific findings have revealed a use of language problem solving skills and the ability to count positioning these birds at the intersection of science mythology and art
