Into Our Labours Neil Lazarus, 2022-04-15 Into our Labours explores the literary representation of work across the globe since 1850 setting out to show that the literature of modernity is best understood in the light of the worlding of capitalism The book proposes that a determinative relation exists between changing modes of work and changes in the forms genres and aesthetic strategies of the writing that bears witness to them Two aspects of the worlding of modernity especially are emphasised First an inaugural experience of capitalist social relations whose literary registration sometimes makes itself known through a crisis of representation as the forms of space and time consciousness demanded by life in contexts in which market oriented commodity production has become the dominant form of social labour are counterposed with inherited ways of seeing and knowing now under acute pressure if not already obsolete Second a moment corresponding to the consolidation regularisation and global dispersal of capitalist development Into Our Labours focuses on the naturalisation of capitalist social relations forms of sociality and solidarity ideologies of familialism individualism and work relations between the sexes and the generations Arguing that the only plausible term for the vast body of literary work engendered by the worlding of capitalist social relations is modernist the book proposes that it is then important to challenge the still entrenched Eurocentric understandings of modernism Modernism is neither originally nor paradigmatically Western in provenance and its temporal parameters are much broader than are usually assumed in modernist studies extending both backward and forward in time

Borges, Buddhism and World Literature Dominique Jullien, 2019-01-04 This book follows the renunciation story in Borges and beyond arguing for its centrality as a Borgesian compositional trope and as a Borgesian prism for reading a global constellation of texts The renunciation story at the heart of Buddhism that of a king who leaves his palace to become an ascetic fascinated Borges because of its cross cultural adaptability and metamorphic nature and because it resonated so powerfully across philosophy politics and aesthetics From the story and its many variants Borges s essays formulated a morphological conception of literature borrowing the idea from Goethe whereby a potentially infinite number of stories were generated by transformation of a finite number of archetypes The king and ascetic encounter also tells a powerful political story setting up a confrontation between power and authority Borges s own political predicament is explored against the rich background of truth telling renouncers In its poetic variant the renunciation archetype morphs into stories about art and artists with renunciation a key requirement of the creative process the discussion weaves in and out of Borges to highlight modern writers debt to asceticism Ultimately the enigmatic appeal of the renunciation story aligns it with the open endedness of modern parables Translation Studies Abstracts ,1998

Journal ,1997 , Think No Evil C. Fred Alford,2018-10-18 In this investigation of the contemporary notion of evil C Fred Alford asks what we can learn about this concept and about ourselves by examining a society where it is unknown where language contains no word that equates to the English term evil Does such a society look upon human nature more benignly Do its members view the world through rose colored glasses Korea offers a fascinating starting point and Alford begins his search for answers there In conversations with hundreds of Koreans from diverse religions and walks of life students politicians teachers Buddhist monks Confucian scholars Catholic priests housewives psychiatrists and farmers Alford found remarkable agreement about the nonexistence of evil Koreans regard evil not as a moral category but as an intellectual one the result of erroneous Western thinking For them evil results from the creation of dualisms oppositions between people and ideas Alford s interviews often led to discussions about imported ways of thinking and the impact of globalization upon society at large In particular he was struck by how Koreans responses to globalization matched Westerners views about evil In much of the world he argues globalization is the ultimate dualism attractive for the enlightenment and freedom it brings terrifying for the great social and personal upheaval it can cause
