Re-Inventing Africa's Development Jong-Dae Park,2018-12-31 This open access book analyses the development problems of sub Sahara Africa SSA from the eyes of a Korean diplomat with knowledge of the economic growth Korea has experienced in recent decades The author argues that Africa s development challenges are not due to a lack of resources but a lack of management presenting an alternative to the traditional view that Africa s problems are caused by a lack of leadership In exploring an approach based on mind set and nation building rather than unity which tends to promote individual or party interests rather than the broader country or national interests the author suggests new solutions for SSA s economic growth inspired by Korea s successful economic growth model much of which is focused on industrialisation This book will be of interest to researchers policymakers NGOs and governmental bodies in economics development and politics studying Africa s economic development and Korea s economic growth model Regionalism, Development and the Post-Commodities Boom in South America Ernesto Vivares,2017-11-15 This book is a critical and multidisciplinary IPE of the unequal structures of South American development and uneven insertions in the global order following the decline of the commodities boom The work explores the extent to which regional development issues are related to merely a decline of commodities prices and or to the resilience of the historical structures within an unequal world order Thus the authors seek first to analytically explore the regional issues beyond the formal limitations of North American and Eurocentric approaches Secondly they empirically scrutinize the complex dimensions of regional inequality and global insertions Aspects analysed include economic reprimarization the impact of China development finance trade and regional value chains knowledge and technology regional and transnational organised crime cities economic integration and the Global South The Palgrave Handbook of Sustainability Robert Brinkmann,Sandra J. Nem Singh,2024-06-26 As the world moves towards decarbonization and the race for clean energy technologies accelerates states in the global south are increasingly called upon to supply critical minerals to fuel the transition Business of the State details how mineral states might design effective growth strategies in this context of strategic competition and climate emergency via the rise of a hybrid developmental strategy during 1990s and 2010s the embrace of market conforming policies to attract FDI and the re assertion of state owned enterprises SOEs as players in industrial development Drawing from the experiences of Brazil s Petrobras and Chile s Codelco the book argues that SOEs might open new pathways for technological innovation and even support industrial policy if subjected to effective governance reforms and aligned with the private sector In this way the book shifts the analytical lens away from extractivism as a growth model and towards hybrid development strategies formulated through SOEs Business of the State asks fundamental questions about states and markets why do states seek to intervene in the affairs of public enterprises And what role might they play in structural transformation The book provides answers using a historical institutionalist framework process tracing the complex process of market reforms in highly strategic natural resource industries

Johor Francis E Hutchinson, Serina Rahman, 2020-09-01 In 1990 the Malaysian state of Johor along with Singapore and the Indonesian island of Batam launched the Growth Triangle to attract foreign direct investment For Johor this drive was very successful transforming its economy and driving up income levels Today Johor is one of Malaysia s developed states housing large clusters of electrical and electronics food processing and furniture producing firms While welcome this structural transformation has also entailed important challenges and strategic choices After three decades Johor s manufacture for export model is under question as it faces increasing competition and flat lining technological capabilities In response the state has sought to diversify its economy through strategic investments in new mostly service based activities Yet Johor retains pockets of excellence in traditional sectors that also require support and policy attention The state s economic transformation has also been accompanied by far reaching political social and environmental change Not least Johor s growing population has generated demand for affordable housing and put pressure on public services The strain has been exacerbated by workers from other states and overseas These demographic factors and large scale projects have in turn put stress on the environment These economic and social changes have also had political ramifications While Johor is a bastion of two of the country s oldest and most established political parties the state s large urban and connected electorate has made it hospitable terrain for new political organisations Beyond electoral politics Johor is also the home of a powerful and influential royal family with very specific ideas about its role in the state s political life Building on earlier work by the ISEAS Yusof Ishak Institute on the Singapore Johor Riau Islands Cross border Region this book focuses on this important Malaysian state as it deals with important domestic challenges on one hand and strives to engage with international markets on the other I have always felt that there are many more complementarities possible between Singapore and Johor This would be to the benefit of both economies but the political division between the two was just too great The two economies lived adjacent but separate lives Singapore looking out to the world and Johor looking north until initiatives such as the Iskandar Malaysia development corridor began to change things significantly The concern now is that the pendulum may have swung too much the other way driven by the huge income and price differentials as well as Singapore's global city status Francis and Serina's compilation is a welcomed attempt at understanding Johor in a much more comprehensive manner not just its changing economy but how its politics and society have been impacted by these changes which is a more endogenized view of economic integration Dr Nungsari Ahmad Radhi former MP Balik Pulau and Executive Director Khazanah Nasional Drawing on the expertise of internationally known specialists this insightful collection explores the multiple ways in which Johor's economic development has influenced the contemporary political scene and the effects on local society and the environment Skillfully edited and meticulously researched Johor Abode of Development is not merely required reading for anyone interested in contemporary Malaysia but will be of immense value to historians of the future Barbara Watson Andaya Professor of Asian Studies University of Hawai'i

Environmental Change and African Societies Julia Tischler, Ingo Haltermann, 2019-10-07 The volume Environmental Change and African Societies contributes to current debates on global climate change from the perspectives of the social sciences and the humanities It charts past and present environmental change in different African settings and also discusses policies and scenarios for the future The first section Ideas enquires into local perceptions of the environment followed by contributions on historical cases of environmental change and state regulation The section Present addresses decision making and agenda setting processes related to current representations and or predicted effects of climate change The section Prospects is concerned with contemporary African megatrends The authors move across different scales of investigation from locally grounded ethnographic analyses to discussions on continental trends and international policy Contributors are Daniel Callo Concha Joy Clancy Manfred Denich Sara de Wit Ton Dietz Irit Eguavoen Ben Fanstone Ingo Haltermann Laura Jeffrey Emmanuel Kreike Vimbai Kwashirai James C McCann Bertrand F Nero Jonas Nielsen Erick G Tambo Julia Tischler

Reconfiguring Transregionalisation in the Global South Ross Anthony, Uta Ruppert, 2019-11-01 This volume examines the Africa Asia relationship from a transregional perspective namely as a set of emergent social political and economic practices spanning a number of analytical and spatial scales Drawing on a host of countries from both regions the contributions illustrate how encounters increasingly transcend fixed territorial categories at local national and regional levels While large scale political and economic considerations tend to dominate in Asia Africa related literature for instance in China Africa BRICS and South South discourses the current volume seeks to foster dialogue between these broader levels of analyses and more localized social practices and experiences including the role of civil society cultural production and migration With an emphasis on the trans aspects of inter regional exchange the volume contributes to a better understanding of new forms of space making between these two increasingly important regions

GE-14 in Johor Francis E Hutchinson, 2018-02-02 Johor is a key battleground in Malaysia's 14th General Elections The state is economically vital to the country it is the birthplace of the United Malays National Organization UMNO and it has a large number of parliamentary seats Johor specific dynamics that have worked to the advantage of the ruling coalition include UMNO's unique links with the state the tight control over religion and the phenomenal scale and success of the Federal Land Development Authority FELDA scheme Despite these advantages support for the ruling coalition has been slipping across the state Furthermore the emergence of new parties such as Parti Pribumi Bersatu Malaysia PPBM will challenge Barisan Nasional's control over Johor's rural and Malay heartland The redelineation of parliamentary and state constituencies now underway is however likely to benefit BN and recent survey data indicate that Johoreans are yet to be attracted to the reconfigured opposition coalition Pakatan Harapan Thus while BN may suffer a drop in support it is likely to retain power in Johor
