Aspiring To Excel Leadership Initiatives For Music Educators:

Aspiring to Excel Kenneth Ray Raessler, 2003 In this inspirational book author Kenneth Raessler draws on his more than four decades of experience as a music teacher to offer his thoughts on the current state and future of music education in the United States from elementary school to the university level It serves as a challenge to all music educators to assess their priorities their goals and the sequence of instruction in their school districts or their universities Topics addressed include building support within the community developing a comprehensive curriculum and avoiding burnout

Case Studies in Music Education Frank Abrahams, Paul D. Head, 2005 This book is about making the journey as a music teacher about the critical real world problems and conflicts music teachers face that rarely seem to get any notice in college or graduate school music courses How should a music teacher balance learning and performing What is the best way to handle an angry parent What are the consequences of the grades teachers assign What are the best ways to discipline students How should teachers relate to the administrators and to other teachers What if the school is breaking copyright laws These are just a few of the issues covered in this book The emphasis here is not on the solution but on the process There are many viable approaches to nearly every obstacle but before any meaningful long term solutions can be made teachers must identify their own personal philosophy of music education and recognize those traits that are admirable in another's style This book is one that will engage you and help you become a more effective music teacher

Developing an All-School Model for Elementary Integrative Music Learning Carol E. Reed-Jones, 2014-03 The purpose of this study was to investigate the potential for increasing informal music making in elementary school culture and create a model of such music making Precedence for this model can be found in the literature of ethnomusicology educational psychology and learning theory multicultural music education and cultural anthropology Literature from four distinct traditions and contexts of music making in integrative sociocultural contexts sub Saharan African ngoma and Community Music as manifested in New Orleans second lines old time music and dance and summer camp music making was parsed with a philosophical lens to determine and assess possible areas of intersection between these four participatory cultures and North American public school culture Each of these five areas was examined through a comprehensive review of literature to define their salient characteristics These characteristics were sorted to determine commonalities between areas and the zones of intersection became the basis for a speculative model of integrative music learning featuring the inclusion of musical opportunities and interludes throughout the school day thus taking school music beyond the confines of the music room Instruction in music classes would still continue enhanced in this model by supplemental learning opportunities inspired by the informal learning of traditional world musics the participatory practice of New Orleans second line parades old time music and dance and summer camp music culture This model of integrative learning is also informed by current educational best practices such as child centered learning peer tutoring experiential learning and multicultural perspectives It acknowledges the diversity of traditions consulted while aiming for the unity in their seemingly disparate disciplines Five universal characteristics were uncovered in the search for areas of intersection between North American elementary school culture child culture ngoma music making and Community Music style music making in New Orleans old time music and dance and summer camp contexts a Song b play c informal learning as evidenced by oral tradition peer tutoring self learning d kinesthetic learning and e contextualized learning as evidenced in the sociocultural uses of music and situated learning This model strives for the enactment of school music as a vital and integral part of daily school culture
