Subject Guide to Books in Print , 1997 Natural Selection Theory in Non-majors' Biology Dianne Leigh Anderson, 2003 Evolution by natural selection is the dominant and unifying theme in biology yet many college students hold alternative conceptions about the topic even after completing general biology To develop effective instructional strategies and track conceptual understanding it is useful to have a detailed assessment tool easily used with large classes This study presents the Conceptual Inventory of Natural Selection CINS a distractor driven twenty item multiple choice test that assesses understanding of ten concepts related to natural selection biotic potential stable populations limited natural resources limited survival variation within a population variation inherited differential survival change in populations origin of variation and origin of species Development refinement and field testing of individual CINS items are presented and validity readability reliability and factor analysis of the CINS are described There was significant correlation between student performance on the posttest CINS and end of semester interviews suggesting that the CINS is a useful classroom tool The CINS was used as both a pretest and posttest to determine relative difficulty of the concepts among college students The three most challenging concepts were random origin of variation how populations change over time due to changing proportions of alleles and how new species originate Many students chose distractors including need as a driving force Results support the use of non traditional methods as only students in such classes demonstrated any improvement on the CINS posttest Pre and posttesting with the CINS was also used to assess relative effectiveness of using two types of supplemental reading materials selections from narrative non textbook sources or from other general biology textbooks in a general biology course These results suggest that specific content of readings was more important than style of the readings Implications for teaching both students and pre service teachers are described Annot Inst Edit Lab Man Biol 3e /Campbell Benjamin-Cummings Publishing Company,Judith Giles Morgan,1994-02 Laboratory Protocols in Fungal Biology Vijai Kumar Gupta,Maria Tuohy,2022-02-03 Mycology has an integral role to play in the development of the biotechnology and biomedical sectors It has become a subject of increasing importance as new fungi and their associated biomolecules are identified As this discipline comes to the forefront of research in these sectors the requirement for a consolidation of available research approaches is required The First Edition of this book has a few basic and applied protocols With the Second Edition this book provides consolidated information on recent developments and the most widely used mycological methods available in the fields of biochemistry biotechnology and microbiology The methods outlined offer clear and concise directions to the reader and covers both standard protocols and more applied mycological methods This book provides useful information for undergraduates post graduates and specialists and researchers studying fungal biology Catalog of Copyright Entries. Third Series Library of Congress. Copyright Office,1972 Biology Neil A. Campbell,Jane B. Reece,2005 Neil Campbell and Jane Reece s BIOLOGY remains unsurpassed as the most successful majors biology textbook in the world This text has invited more than 4 million students into the study of this dynamic and essential discipline The authors have restructured each chapter around a conceptual framework of five or six big ideas An Overview draws students in and sets the stage for the rest of the chapter each numbered Concept Head announces the beginning of a new concept and Concept Check questions at the end of each chapter encourage students to assess their mastery of a given concept New Inquiry Figures focus students on the experimental process and new Research Method Figures illustrate important techniques in biology Each chapter ends with a Scientific Inquiry Question that asks students to apply scientific investigation skills to the content of the chapter Biology/science Materials Carolina Biological Supply Company,1991
