Becoming A Reflective English Teacher Green, Andrew, 2011-06-01 This book builds firm bridges between theory and practice through exploring evidence based practice and pursues what this means for new English teachers EBOOK:

Assessing Children's Mathematical Knowledge Barry Cooper, Mairead Dunne, 1999-12-16 this work is highly relevant to the proliferation of accountability measures worldwide James Scheurich and Douglas Foley In many countries the lives of teachers and children are increasingly dominated by programmes of national testing of mathematics and other subjects In England the majority of the items in such tests have set mathematical tasks in every day situations such as shopping This requires children to make decisions about whether to use or not their own every day knowledge and experience in their problem solving Some children are likely to have a better feel for this game than others Assessing Children's Mathematical Knowledge draws on the analysis of national curriculum test data from more than 600 children of 10 11 and 13 14 years of age as well as in depth interviews with 250 of these as they attempt to solve test problems in order to explore the nature of the difficulties children experience with realistic items The book shows by comparing test and interview data that many children as a consequence of their confusion over the requirements of realistic test items fail in tests to demonstrate mathematical knowledge and understanding that they actually possess The book also explores whether this problem of invalid measurement is equally spread across children from different social backgrounds and across the sexes The book will be of interest to academics and teachers studying for advanced degrees in mathematics education sociology of education and educational assessment

Supporting the Child of Exceptional Ability at Home and School Susan Leyden, 2013-07-04 Drawing on theories of child development and on research in the processes of learning this book examines the challenges that children parents and teachers may face at various stages of a child's development Children whose development is unusual in any way may experience particular challenges in forming relationships and in making good progress in school If we are to help children of exceptional ability to develop into confident and well adjusted young people we need to understand what lies behind many of the common frustrations and problems some of them may experience This book looks at ways in which supportive learning environments can be created in which children and young people's abilities can be nurtured and encouraged Ways in which the school curriculum can be extended and enriched to maintain children's interest and enthusiasm in their learning are also explored This will be of particular interest to parents teachers and educational psychologists to teachers in training and to other professionals who support the work of families and schools National Curriculum Great Britain. Parliament. House of Commons. Children, Schools and Families Committee, Great Britain: Parliament: House of Commons: Children, Schools and Families Committee, 2009 Incorporating HC 651 i to viii session 2007 08

Teaching History Hilary Bourdillon, 2013-10-31 Against a background of controversy surrounding the teaching of history this reader gathers the current thoughts of the leading practitioners The development of school history up to the national curriculum and beyond is traced and the main issues concerning history teachers today are examined These issues include access to history the definition of British history in a multicultural society gender and the place of history with the humanities Progression and attainment are discussed as is the development of pupil s historical understanding and practical approaches to teaching history to 11 18 level pupils are explored From GCSEs to EBCs Great Britain. Parliament. House of Commons. Education Committee,2013 The Government s plans for replacing GCSEs with new English Baccalaureate Certificates in some subjects is trying to do too much too fast Introducing several fundamental changes at the same time and to a tight timetable will jeopardise the quality of the reforms and may threaten the stability of the wider exam system GCSEs need significant improvements in order to restore public confidence in the exam system but the Government still needs to make the case that the GCSE brand is so discredited that it is beyond repair MPs are also concerned about the impact of the changes on subjects outside the English Baccalaureate where students will be taking GCSEs for some time to come according to the Government s plans The report also questions how well the Government s proposals will serve lower attaining pupils who are often the most disadvantaged There is no evidence that the proposed changes will help to tackle under achievement or narrow the attainment gap between the richest and poorest students any more effectively than GCSEs The Government is also called upon to re think its plans for a Statement of Achievement specifically for lower attaining pupils MPs agree that changes are needed to the way in which exams are run but they raise serious concerns about franchising subjects to exam boards The report is critical of the Government s decision to abolish some GCSEs before publishing the outcomes of the National Curriculum Review and its proposed changes to the school accountability system MPs also note the wide ranging stakeholder opposition to many of the Government s proposals
