Moments in Time Featuring: Grandmas Amy Garren, 2013-05-09 This is a memoir to all Grandmothers everywhere. Moments in Time is a series of books dedicated to the phenomenon of life being moments captured in our memory for all time. The first in this series is this book about Grandmothers that is compiled of stories gathered from all over about precious moments with a Grandma. This is a coffee table type book with the intention of bringing a smile to every face on any kind of day. Whether you know of a first time Grandma, a seasoned Grandmother, or somebody who has had a loved one fly home, this is a book that can brighten those moments of memory for all time.

Grandmas Stories Rick Steber, Grandma grew up on a farm and at a relatively young age she fell in love and married Grandpa. They moved west, found the opportunities to their liking, and together they raised a wonderful family. Grandma was the glue that held the family together. She performed the necessary domestic tasks of making a home: caring for the children, cleaning, cooking, baking, washing, sewing, and darning. She also tended the chickens, milked the cows, and churned the cream to butter. And when necessity arose, like the time a horse rolled on Grandpa and he was laid up for nearly a year, Grandma demonstrated she could take on a man's work as well. The Grandma I remember was old. Her domain was the kitchen, a room dominated by the cheery warmth of a wood stove and the sweet aroma of baking pies. While Grandma worked, frequently pausing to wipe her calloused hands on her freshly ironed white apron, she talked, telling stories of pioneering days, tales handed down from the Indians, and interesting things that had happened to family members, friends, and neighbors. Every once in a while she lowered her voice and shared some small secret. My children will know their great grandmother because of the stories I will share with them, and from the words Grandma carefully wrote in her journal. Every evening, no matter how trying her day had been, she would take a few moments to reflect and describe things from the day that were important to her: a laughing child chasing a butterfly across the pasture, the lovely fragrance of wildflowers in bloom, a field of wheat dancing in an afternoon breeze. When Grandma finished the entries, she would lay down her pen, close her journal, blow out the candle flame, and say to herself, "And so ends another glorious day."
