Between Still And Moving Images Photography And Cinema In The 20th Century:

Between Still and Moving Images Laurent Guido, Olivier Lugon, 2012 Addresses the relationship between cinema and photography during the 20th century It comes out of a dialogue between historians from both fields equally represented in the table of contents It opens the field of study beyond the domains of art and cinephilia to take into account the social uses of images of popular media and of a diversity of discursive fields from medicine to pedagogy It aims to move beyond general aesthetic considerations to deal with specific historical objects including discourses Back cover

Photography and Other Media in the Nineteenth Century Nicoletta Leonardi, Simone Natale, 2018-02-05 In this volume leading scholars of photography and media examine photography's vital role in the evolution of media and communication in the nineteenth century In the first half of the nineteenth century the introduction of telegraphy the development of a cheaper and more reliable postal service the rise of the mass circulation press and the emergence of the railway dramatically changed the way people communicated and experienced time and space Concurrently photography developed as a medium that changed how images were produced and circulated Yet for the most part photography of the era is studied outside the field of media history The contributors to this volume challenge those established disciplinary boundaries as they programmatically explore the intersections of photography and new media during a period of fast paced change Their essays look at the emergence and early history of photography in the context of broader changes in the history of communications the role of the nascent photographic press in photography's infancy and the development of photographic techniques as part of a broader media culture that included the mass consumed novel sound recording and cinema Featuring essays by noteworthy historians in photography and media history this discipline shifting examination of the communication revolution of the nineteenth century is an essential addition to the field of media studies In addition to the editors contributors to this volume are Geoffrey Batchen Geoffrey Belknap Lynn Berger Jan von Brevern Anthony Enns Andr Gaudreault Lisa Gitelman David Henkin Erkki Huhtamo Philippe Marion Peppino Ortoleva Steffen Siegel Richard Taws and Kim Timby

Print Matters Maria Antonella Pelizzari, Andrés Mario Zervigón, 2025-11-11 This volume presents a nuanced exploration of how illustrated magazines shaped global visual culture between 1910 and 1970 In the early to mid twentieth century the vast majority of printed photographs appeared in the pages of illustrated magazines Publications such as Life China Pictorial Drum Picture Post and Ebony did more than showcase photographs they crafted visual narratives by combining images text and graphics into influential cultural artifacts These periodicals shaped public perception and mass media consensus like the Internet does today bringing a shared visual experience to homes and newsstands around the world The essays in this volume delve into the technologies and visual strategies behind these publications showing how their layouts were affected by political commercial editorial and artistic factors leading up to World War II The commentaries also explore how democracy dictatorships colonization and modernity at large gave rise to experimental magazine designs turning avant garde art and lifestyle reporting into popular formats Featuring over 150 images Print Matters traces how illustrated magazines evolved across countries and continents offering new insights into their history and enduring impact on culture and society

Between Stillness and Motion Eivind Røssaak, 2011 Since the development of film as an artistic medium in the 1890s there has been an inherent tension between still photographic images and moving cinematic images from their form and function to the messages they convey and their impact on the beholder and on culture at large This volume one of the first book length works to analyze critique and further the international debate about the meaning and use of motion and stillness in film and photography takes these concepts out of the theoretical arena of cinematic studies and applies them to the wider and ever changing landscape of images and media With contributions from such acclaimed international scholars as Tom Gunning Thomas Elsaesser Mark B N Hansen George Baker Ina Blom and Christa Bl mlinger these collected essays examine the strategic uses of stillness and motion in art from the mid nineteenth century to the technologically driven present

Remembering 1989 Anke Pinkert, 2024-10-07 This account of the laboratory of radical democracy in the months before East Germany s absorption in the West challenges memories of Germany s reunification For many 1989 is an iconic date one we associate with the fall of the Berlin Wall and the end of the Cold War The year prompts some to rue the defeat of socialism in the East while others celebrate a victory for democracy and capitalism in the reunified Germany Remembering 1989 focuses on a largely forgotten interregnum the months between the outbreak of protests in the German Democratic Republic in 1989 and its absorption by the West in 1990 Anke Pinkert who herself participated in those protests recalls these months as a volatile but joyous laboratory of radical democracy and tells the story of how and why this time out of joint has been erased from Germany s national memory

Remembering 1989 argues that in order to truly understand Germany's historic transformation we must revisit protesters' actions across a wide range of minor vernacular and often transient sources. Drawing on rich archives including videotapes of untelevised protests, illegally printed petitions by Church leaders, audio recordings of dissident meetings, and interview footage with military troops, Pinkert opens the discarded history of East European social uprisings to new interpretations and imagines alternatives to Germany's neoliberal status quo. The result is a vivid, unexpected contribution to memory studies and European history.

Cinéma&Cie. International Film Studies Journal. Aa. Vv., 2016-10-11T00:00:00+02:00

For a long time, comparisons of cinema and photography have been predominantly a question of contrast, both of their forms and their ways of seeing. This special issue of Cinéma&Cie. explores post-filmic aesthetics such as the cinematic tableau vivant and innovative examples of contemporary experimental audiovisual production.

Moving Images, Mobile Viewers Renate Brosch, 2011

Vision and movement seem to have shifted center stage in modes of experience in the last century as a result of their joint effect. Slow, contemplative gazes at static images seem to be increasingly displaced by distracted, vernacular ways of seeing. Looking out of the window of a speeding car, receiving photographs of Earth from outer space, watching the flickering images of the TV screen scrolling through a text, zooming in on a location in Google Earth, or sending images via mobile phones or webcams—all these are unique visual experiences that were impossible before various inventions in the 20th century originated completely new kinds of movement. The double meaning of moving images is meant to signal the specificity of motion to these imaginings and at the same time to express the emotional power of those visual images which are able to transcend the constant stream of images in contemporary perception.

Time and Photography Jan Baetens, Alexander Streitberger, Hilde van Gelder, 2010

Despite our stereotypical ideas on photographic images as snapshots or slices of time, photography is fundamentally a time-based medium. The relationships between photography and time are manifold: time can be directly represented within the image; it can be its theme and philosophical horizon; but it can also represent the global framework in which photographic practices develop and change through time. It is the ambition of this book to bring together the various aspects of time in photography as well as of photography in time and to illustrate them in a series of case studies that focus on seminal authors (e.g., Fox Talbot, Victor Burgin, Robert Morris) and genres (e.g., spirit photography, montage, photobooks, and tableau photography) with examples ranging from the very first photographic pictures to the most recent cross-medial uses of photography in and outside art.

Photography Performing Humor Liesbeth Decan, Mieke Bleyen, 2019-03-11

New perspectives on humor within photography. Despite the ubiquitous presence of photographic humor in art and popular media, the phenomenon has as yet received very little scholarly attention. Focusing on staged humor rather than on comic effects of snapshot photography, this volume brings together leading scholars in the field addressing humor performed in front of the camera, often specifically created for the camera and the performative joke work.

done by the medium itself A first section explores how photography due to its shattering qualities turns into a privileged medium for eliciting humorous effects and how humor can be discerned within the photographic event A second section discusses the toolbox of photographic trickery photomontage double exposure and cinematic movement that allows photography to mock itself The book closes with a section on photographic wit in conceptual art both in canonized and more locally distinct practices With artists pages from Paulien Oltheten Lieven Segers and David Helbich

3D and Animated Lenticular Photography Kim Timby, 2015-07-31 Scholars are increasingly investigating photography's broad cultural role expanding our understanding of the diversity of photographic practices Kim Timby contributes to this new history of photography by examining the multifaceted story of images that animate with a flick of the wrist or appear vividly three dimensional without the use of special devices both made possible by the lenticular process Using French case studies this volume broadly weaves 3D and animated lenticular imagery into scientific and popular culture from early cinema and color reproduction to the birth of modern advertising and the market for studio portraits postcards and religious imagery The motivations behind the invention and reinvention of this pervasive form of imagery from the turn of the twentieth century through the end of the pre digital era shed new light on our relationship to photographic realism and on the forceful interplay in photography between technological innovation and the desire to be entertained 3D and Animated Lenticular Photography Between Utopia and Entertainment is a profusely illustrated and engaging interdisciplinary study of a wide ranging body of images that have fascinated viewers for generations

Seeing Things Amanda Shubert, 2025-11-15 A cultural history of nineteenth century media imaginaries Seeing Things tells the story of how Victorians experienced the virtual images created by modern optical technologies magic lanterns stereoscopes phenakistoscopes museum displays and illusionistic stage magic Amanda Shubert argues that interactions with these devices gave rise to a new virtual aesthetics an understanding of visual and perceptual encounters with things that are not really there The popularization of Victorian optical media redefined visuality as a rational mode of spectatorship that taught audiences to distinguish illusion from reality As an aesthetic expression of a civilizational ideal that defined the capacity to see but not believe to be entertained without being deceived it became a sign of western supremacy By tracing the development of virtual aesthetics through nineteenth century writings from the novels of George Eliot and Charles Dickens to popular science writing and imperial travelogues Seeing Things recovers a formative period of technological and literary innovation to explain how optical media not only anticipated cinema but became a paradigmatic media aesthetic of western modernity
