enslaved Africans in urban and plantation settings in St Eustatius The volume contains a pioneering study of frontier exchange with Amerindians in Dominica and a synthesis of ceramic exchange networks among enslaved Africans in the Leeward Islands Chapters on military forts in Nevis and St Kitts call attention to this often neglected aspect of the Caribbean colonial landscape Contributors also directly address culture heritage issues relating to community participation and interpretation On St Kitts the legacy of forced confinement of lepers ties into debates of current public health policy Plantation site studies from Antigua and Martinique are especially relevant because they detail comparisons of French and British patterns of African enslavement and provide insights into how each addressed the social and economic changes that occurred with emancipation Contributors Todd M Ahlman Douglas V Armstrong Samantha Rebovich Bardoe Paul Farnsworth Jeffrey R Ferguson R Grant Gilmore III Diana Gonz lez Tennant Edward Gonz lez Tennant Barbara J Heath Carter L Hudgins Kenneth G Kelly Eric Klingelhofer Roger H Leech Stephan Lenik Gerald F Schroedl Diane Wallman Christian Williamson

Myths and Realities of Caribbean History Basil A. Reid, 2009-04-12 This book seeks to debunk eleven popular and prevalent myths about Caribbean history Using archaeological evidence it corrects many previous misconceptions promulgated by history books and oral tradition as they specifically relate to the pre Colonial and European contact periods It informs popular audiences as well as scholars about the current state of archaeological historical research in the Caribbean Basin and asserts the value of that research in fostering a better understanding of the region s past Contrary to popular belief the history of the Caribbean did not begin with the arrival of Europeans in 1492 It actually started 7 000 years ago with the infusion of Archaic groups from South America and the successive migrations of other peoples from Central America for about 2 000 years thereafter In addition to discussing this rich cultural diversity of the Antillean past Myths and Realities of Caribbean History debates the misuse of terms such as Arawak and Ciboneys and the validity of Carib cannibalism allegations archaeologists have been isolated from research being carried out on other islands in the region just as other scientists have been unable to work on Cuba or communicate easily with their Cuban colleagues While popular interest in and scholarly knowledge of prehistoric art and archaeology have grown in recent years the Caribbean has been neglected and Cuba especially Through Art and Archaeology of Pre Columbian Cuba archaeologists and other professionals as well as general readers will come to admire and respect the talent visible in these examples of aboriginal art Island Shores, Distant Pasts Scott M. Paleodemography L. Antonio Curet, 2005-06-05 A high significant discussion of Caribbean archaeology and a fascinating introduction to paleodemography According to the European chronicles at the time of contact the Greater Antilles were inhabited by the Taino or Arawak Indians who were organized in hierarchical societies Since its inception Caribbean archaeology has used population as an important variable in explaining many social political and economic processes such as migration changes in subsistence systems and the development of institutionalized social stratification In Caribbean Paleodemography L Antonio Curet argues that population has been used casually by Caribbean archaeologists and proposes more rigorous and promising ways in which demographic factors can be incorporated in our modeling of past human behavior He analyzes a number of demographic issues in island archaeology at various levels of analysis including inter and intra island migration carrying capacity population structures variables in prehistory cultural changes and the relationship with material culture and social development With this work Curet brings together the diverse theories on Greater Antilles island populations and the social and political forces governing their growth and migration The Archaeology of
