The European Commission and the Integration of Europe Liesbet Hooghe, 2001 What kind of European Union do top Commission officials want Should the European Union be supranational or intergovernmental Should it promote market liberalism or regulated capitalism Should the Commission be Europe's government or its civil service This 2002 book examines top officials preferences on these questions through analysis of unique data from 137 interviews Understanding the forces that shape human preferences is the subject of intense debate Hooghe demonstrates that the Commission has difficulty shaping its employees preferences in the fluid multi institutional context of the European Union Top officials preferences are better explained by experiences outside rather than inside the Commission political party country and prior work leave deeper imprints than directorate general or cabinet Preferences are also influenced more by internalized values than by self interested career calculation Hooghe's findings are surprising and will challenge a number of common assumptions about the workings and motives of the European Commission

Networks and Geographies of Global Social Policy Diffusion Michael Windzio,Ivo Mossig,Fabian Besche-Truthe,Helen Seitzer,2021-11-24 This open access book analyses the global diffusion of social policy as a process driven by multiplex ties between countries in global social networks The contributions analyze links between countries via global trade colonial history similarity in culture and spatial proximity Networks are viewed as the structural backbone of the diffusion process and diffusion is analysed via several subfields of social policy in order to interrogate which network dimensions drive this process The focus is on a global perspective of social policy diffusion via networks and it is the first book to explicitly follow this macro quantitative perspective on diffusion at a global scale whilst also comparing different networks The collection tests the network structures in terms of their relevance to the diffusion process in different subfields of social policy such as old age and survivor pensions labor and labor markets health and long term care education and training and family and gender policy The book will therefore be invaluable to students and researchers of global social policy sociology political science international relations organization theory and economics The Political Economy of Communications Kenneth Dyson,Peter

Humphreys,2023-10-20 First published in 1990 The Political Economy of Communications explores the central theme of the relationship between politics and markets in policy development The contributors show how governments have been drawn into increasing interdependency by technological and market developments with international institutions like the European Community becoming more important in these policy areas They argue that neither government ideologies nor market and technological forces offer an adequate account of the processes of change in communications policy These conclusions lead to a critique of central theories of international political economy notably neo liberalism and the authors advocate instead a neo pluralist perspective for the study of political economy of communications an approach that takes institutions much more seriously as a central unit of analysis The book will be of interest to students of international relations European studies and media and telecommunication studies as well as to political scientists and economists concerned with public policy

Latin America occupies an increasingly prominent position within the global political economic and cultural consciousness with intra regional governance structures and multilateral processes now a key topic of interest to foreign policy and international business circles It has become abundantly clear that outside of Latin America there is a poor understanding of how the shifting sands of regional power are impacting not only on how regional countries fit into the global system but also on how intra regional relations are viewed and managed The contributions to this collection investigate these issues examining how changing global power dynamics are in turn impacting on national foreign policies and regional governance structures The book focuses first and foremost on the Latin American view outwards not the US or European view to the south This book was originally published as a special issue of the Journal of Iberian and Latin American Research
