pragmatic open door practices of Deng Xiaoping's modern socialist state BOOK JACKET Title Summary field provided by Blackwell North America Inc All Rights Reserved One Alliance, Two Lenses Gi-Wook Shin, 2010-01-27 Using newly collected data from American and Korean newspapers this book examines relations between the United States and South Korea from 1992 to 2003 a particularly contentious period in the history of the two allies A Misunderstood Friendship Zhihua Shen, Yafeng Xia, 2020-11-03 Today the People's Republic of China is North Korea's only ally on the world stage a tightly knit relationship that goes back decades Both countries portray their partnership as one of brotherly affection based on shared political ideals an alliance as tight as lips to teeth even though relations have deteriorated in recent years due to China's ascendancy and North Korea's intransigence In A Misunderstood Friendship leading diplomatic historians Zhihua Shen and Yafeng Xia draw on previously untapped primary source materials revealing tensions and rivalries to offer a unique account of the China North Korea relationship They unravel the twists and turns in high level diplomacy between China and North Korea from the late 1940s to the death of Mao Zedong in 1976 Through unprecedented access to Chinese government documents Soviet and Eastern European archives and in depth interviews with former Chinese diplomats and North Korean defectors Shen and Xia reveal that the tensions that currently plague the alliance between the two countries have been present from the very beginning of the relationship They significantly revise existing narratives of the Korean War China's postwar aid to North Korea Kim Il sung's ideological and strategic thinking North Korea's relations with the Soviet Union and the importance of the Sino U S rapprochement among other issues A Misunderstood Friendship adds new depth to our understanding of one of the most secretive and significant relationships of the Cold War with increasing relevance to international affairs today China and North Korea Andrew Scobell, 2004-03-31 The China North Korea relationship remains the most enduring uninterrupted bilateral friendship for both the People's Republic of China PRC and Democratic People's Republic of Korea DPRK This brother in arms relationship was solidified early during the Korean War Sharing a common border and ideology both China and North Korea confront the frustration of divided nations And while on the one hand each views the United States as hostile Beijing and Pyongyang on the other hand appear to crave better relations with Washington Arguably each clings to the other because they have nowhere else to turn each believes that close cooperation with the other is vital to its own national security No doubt each country would prefer to depend less on the other China has a major stake in ensuring the continued survival of the North Korean regime and may be willing to go to considerable lengths to guarantee this North Korea meanwhile seems destined to remain heavily dependent on China for morale support and material assistance Despite this type of relationship between Pyongyang and Beijing there are significant limits to China's influence on North Korea in part due to China's unwillingness to apply hard pressure and in part because even if China did apply such pressure North Korea might not respond in the desired manner China was spurred into action in early 2003 by heightened fears that North Korea might be the next target of U S military action after Iraq China undertook an unprecedented diplomatic initiative to bring Washington and Pyongyang to the same table in Beijing thrice in the space of 10 months three party talks in April 2003 and then six party talks in August 2003 and February 2004 China deserves considerable credit for these significant accomplishments Nevertheless China may have reached the limits of its influence on North Korea in terms of what actions the United States can expect from Beijing and what impact Chinese influence is likely to have on Pyongyang The most the United States probably can expect is for China to push on to continue the six party talks Recommendations include Don t expect too much from Beijing Don t underestimate China s commitment to protect its own national interests Don t force China to choose sides Don t expect much movement from Pyongyang North Korean distrust of outsiders may be almost insurmountable Don t count on China to dissuade North Korea from going nuclear A History of Relations Between the Us With Russia, China, Iran and North Korea Bob Navarro,2017-08-30 The United States has had an adversarial relationship with four major countries since the 20th century Russia China North Korea and Iran Triangular Relations Among South Korea, China and the United States.
