Brown Dwarf Companions to Young Solar an Stanimir Metchev, 2006-02 We present results from an adaptive optics survey conducted with the Palomar and Keck telescopes over 3 years which measured the frequency of stellar and sub stellar companions to Sun like stars The survey sample contains 266 stars in the 3 10000 million year age range at heliocentric distances between 8 and 200 parsecs and with spectral types between F5 K5 A sub sample of 101 stars between 3 500 million years old were observed in deep exposures with a coronagraph to search for faint sub stellar companions A total of 288 candidate companions were discovered around the sample stars which were re imaged at subsequent epochs to determine physical association with the candidate host stars by checking for common proper motion Benefitting from a highly accurate astrometric calibration of the observations we were able to successfully apply the common proper motion test in the majority of the cases including stars with proper motions as small as 20 milli arcseconds year The results from the survey include the discovery of three new

brown dwarf companions HD 49197B HD 203030B and ScoPMS 214B 43 new stellar binaries and a triple system The physical association of an additional a priori suspected candidate sub stellar companion to the star HII 1348 is astrometrically confirmed The newly discovered and confirmed young brown dwarf companions span a range of spectral types between M5 and T0 5 and will be of prime significance for constraining evolutionary models of young brown dwarfs and extra solar planets Based on the 3 new detections of sub stellar companions in the 101 star sub sample and following a careful estimate of the survey incompleteness a Bayesian statistical analysis shows that the frequency of 0 012 0 072 solar mass brown dwarfs in 30 1600 AU orbits around young solar analogs is 6 8% 4 9% 8 3% 2 sigma limits While this is a factor of 3 lower than the frequency of stellar companions to G dwarfs in the same orbital range it is significantly higher than the frequency of brown dwarfs in 0 3 AU orbits discovered through precision radial velocity surveys It is also fully consistent with the observed frequency of 0 3 AU extra solar planets Thus the result demonstrates that the radial velocity brown dwarf desert does not extend to wide separations contrary to previous belief

The Cross and the Sickle Catherine Evtuhov, 2018-10-18 Catherine Evtuhov resurrects the brilliant and contradictory currents of turn of the century Kiev Moscow and St Petersburg through an intellectual biography of Sergei Bulgakov 1871 1944 one of the central figures of the Silver Age The son of a provincial priest Bulgakov served first as one of Russia s most original and influential interpreters of Marx and then went on to become the century s most important theologian of the Orthodox faith As Evtuhov recounts the story of Bulgakov s spiritual evolution she traces the impact of seemingly opposed philosophical and religious world views on one another and on the course of political events In the first comprehensive analysis of Bulgakov's most important religious philosophical work Philosophy of Economy Evtuhov identifies a perceptual revolution in Russian thinking about economy a significant contribution to European modernist thought which both shaped and grew out of contemporary debates over land reforms She reconstructs Bulgakov's vision of an Orthodox constitutional Russia shows how he tried to put it into practice in the wake of the February Revolution and demonstrates its importance for a large and influential portion of Russian society

Cognitive Technology J.L. Mey, B. Gorayska, 1995-12-01 In this book the editors have gathered a number of contributions by persons who have been working on problems of Cognitive Technology CT The present collection initiates explorations of the human mind via the technologies the mind produces These explorations take as their point of departure the question What happens when humans produce new technologies Two interdependent perspectives from which such a production can be approached are adopted How and why constructs that have their origins in human mental life are embodied in physical environments when people fabricate their habitat even to the point of those constructs becoming that very habitat How and why these fabricated habitats affect and feed back into human mental life The aim of the CT research programme is to determine in general which technologies and in particular which interactive computer based technologies are humane with respect to the cognitive development and evolutionary adaptation of their end users But what does it really mean to be humane in a technological world To shed light on this central issue other pertinent questions are raised e.g. Why are human minds externalised i.e. what purpose does the process of externalisation serve What can we learn about the human mind by studying how it externalises itself How does the use of externalised mental constructs the objects we call tools change people fundamentally To what extent does human interaction with technology serve as an amplification of human cognition and to what extent does it lead to a atrophy of the human mind The book calls for a reflection on what a tool is Strong parallels between CT and environmentalism are drawn both are seen as trends having originated in our need to understand how we manipulate by means of the tools we have created our natural habitat consisting of on the one hand the cognitive environment which generates thought and determines action and on the other hand the physical environment in which thought and action are realised Both trends endeavour to protect the human habitat from the unwanted or uncontrolled impact of technology and are ultimately concerned with the ethics and aesthetics of tool design and tool use Among the topics selected by the contributors to the book the following themes emerge the list is not exhaustive using technology to empower the cognitively impaired the ethics versus aesthetics of technology the externalisation of emotive and affective life and its special dialectic mirror effects creativity enhancement cognitive space problem tractability externalisation of sensory life and mental imagery the engineering and modelling aspects of externalised life externalised communication channels and inner dialogue externalised learning protocols relevance analysis as a theoretical framework for cognitive technology
