Journeys of Lifelong Learning in Music Rineke Smilde,2021-07-31 Who am I as a musician and how can I contribute to society It is the key question in this reflective handbook on Lifelong Learning in Music in which Rineke Smilde reflects on today s musicians emerging identity and its relationship with their professional performance For many years she has been leading the research group Lifelong Learning in Music of Prince Claus Conservatoire Hanze University Groningen examining questions about the relationship between musicians and society What for example does engagement with new audiences mean for the different roles learning and leadership of musicians And how could we consider musicians learning environments During the research into their learning processes further questions were raised and possible answers examined In this reflective handbook fundamental concepts of Lifelong Learning in Music are clarified and discussed through examples of research projects which were explorative and innovative A fair amount was learnt Several key themes are identified such as reflective practice artistry excellence reciprocity and artistic response In particular the multilayered roles of biographical learning and improvisation emerge in these examples Special attention is given to the notion of the reflexive conservatoire which is rooted within the framework of lifelong learning and includes attention to tacit knowing artistic excellence and the crucial connection to the outside world In the end the author makes a strong case for all musicians developing an informed social role that reflects their own identity and underpins their professional performance There is an emphasis on eliminating the false dichotomy between artistic practices as l art pour l art or social work This can only be achieved through convincing examples of artistic practices in social contexts which inform musicians artistic growth and strengthen their personal and professional development and sense of identity Here there is no either or on the contrary tradition and innovation are married and strengthen each other by being complementary

The 21st-century Singer Susan Mohini Kane,2015 The vast majority of singers with a degree in performance are un or under employed in their field Despite the fact that talented singers are discovered every day there are far too few jobs in the field of classical music to accommodate all of them a problem evidenced by regular reports of opera companies and symphony orchestras closing their doors Young classical singers particularly recent graduates of music programs need not only artistic ability but also intelligence and an acute business sense to navigate the world of professional singing In The 21st Century Singer Making the Leap from the University into the World author Susan Mohini Kane has created a user friendly guide for these recent graduates Kane combines the benefits of an instructional manual with those of a self reflective workbook to provide emerging classical singers with both practical and inspirational advice She begins with a section on self evaluation allowing readers to define what motivates their desire to sing professionally and reflect on their passions before moving on to career advice In the sections that follow Kane presents a variety of career paths such as singing teaching and consulting realistic alternatives to the rise to stardom as an overnight sensation that so few will experience and provides the reader with the tools to develop a concrete plan for whichever path they decide to pursue Other sections offer instruction on how to develop support systems train oneself holistically and take advantage of the newest technological resources available for professional self promotion With its dual emphasis on artistic motivation and modern day business sense The 21st Century Singer will prove an essential text for anyone pursuing a professional singing career
