Genre Bending Jeremy Rosen, 2025-12-09 Detective horror fantasy romance science fiction spy thrillers westerns zombie novels In recent decades acclaimed and ambitious writers of literary fiction have increasingly gravitated to popular fiction genres In this comprehensive account Jeremy Rosen describes literary fiction's embrace of genre fiction's conceits as genre bending and argues that while literary writers adopt genres for a wide variety of purposes what they share is a revitalized attitude toward genre a recognition that while genres can be used in formulaic ways they can also be adapted and transformed endlessly Rosen reads across the outpouring of fiction of the last several decades by writers like Margaret Atwood Michael Chabon Jennifer Egan Louise Erdrich Kazuo Ishiguro Chang rae Lee David Mitchell Cormac McCarthy Ian McEwan Haruki Murakami and Colson Whitehead He finds that literary writers embrace of popular genres is the product of several seemingly contradictory forces including their attempt to extend a modernist inspired project of formal experiment to pursue high cultural prestige and to preserve the distinctiveness of the literary which they perceive to be under threat while also embracing the role of providing pleasure to readers Examining what today's most critically acclaimed and widely read literary writers have done with the genres of genre fiction Genre Bending reveals the values practices and forms as well as the tensions that constitute literary fiction today

The Hairy Ones Shall Dance Gans T. Field, This Thing We Call Literature Arthur Krystal, 2016-02-26 In his fourth book of essays

acclaimed cultural critic Arthur Krystal surveys the world of letters in its academic literary and populist incarnations just to make sure those divisions still apply What he finds is that the ground has shifted With Lionel Trilling at his back Krystal casts a cold eye on contemporary culture and discerns a lack of discrimination between the truly great and the merely good and the fairly good and just plain bad Critical but not angst ridden he deplores tunnel vision on both sides of the culture wars Presumptive cultural boundaries have no place here Krystal admires Bob Dylan and Elmore Leonard without including them in a purely literary pantheon He endorses the Great Books without necessarily voting the Republican ticket In essays about the meaning of the novel the role of music in poetry genre fiction vs literary fiction the contributions of the superlative critic Erich Auerbach and the strange alliance of neurology and aesthetics as well as in lighter pieces about reviewing and list making Krystal brings his own brand of discriminating intelligence to a spectrum of received opinions whose flaws and cracks otherwise go unnoticed
