Banzeiro Òkòtó Eliane Brum, 2023-03-09 A confrontation with the destruction of the Amazon by a writer who moved her life into the heart of the forest In lyrical impassioned prose Eliane Brum recounts her move from S o Paulo to Altamira a city along the Xingu River that has been devastated by the construction of one of the largest dams in the world In community with the human and more than human world of the Amazon Brum seeks to reforest herself while building relationships with forest peoples who carry both the scars and the resistance of the forest in their bodies Weaving together the lived stories of the region and its history of violent corruption and destruction Banzeiro k t is a call for radical change for the creation of a new kind of human being capable of facing the potential extinction of our species In it Brum reveals the direct links between structural inequities rooted in gender race class and even species and the suffering that capitalism and climate breakdown wreak on those who are least responsible for them The title Banzeiro k t features words from two cultural and linguistic traditions banzeiro is what the Amazon people call the place where the river turns into a fearsome vortex and k t is the Yoruba word for a shell that spirals outward into infinity Like the Xingu River turning as it flows this book is a fierce document of transformation arguing for the centrality of the Amazon to all our lives

Nature Prose Dominic Head, 2022 Nature Prose seeks to explain the popularity and appeal of contemporary writing about nature This book intervenes in key areas of contemporary debate about literature and the environment and explores the enduring appeal of writing about nature during an ecological crisis Using a range of international examples with a focus on late twentieth and early twenty first century writing from Britain and the US Dominic Head argues that nature writing contains formal effects which encapsulate our current ecological dilemma and offer a fresh resource for critical thinking The environmental crisis has injected a fresh urgency into nature writing along with a new piquancy for those readers seeking solace in the nonhuman or for those looking to change their habits in the face of ecological catastrophe However behind this apparently strong match between the aims of nature writers and the desires of their readers there is also a shared mood of radical uncertainty and insecurity The treatment and construction of nature in contemporary imaginative prose reveals some significant paradoxes beneath its dominant moods moods which are usually earnest sometimes celebratory sometimes prophetic or cautionary It is in these paradoxical moments that the contemporary ecological crisis is formally encoded in a progressive development of ecological consciousness from the late 1950s onwards Nature prose fiction and nonfiction is now contemporaneous with a defining time of crisis while also being formally fashioned by that context This is a mode of writing that emerges in a world in crisis but which is also in some ways in crisis itself With chapters on remoteness exclusivity abundance and rarity this book marks a turning point in how literary criticism engages with nature writing A Country Called Childhood Jay Griffiths, 2015-11-10 While traveling the world in order to write her award winning book Wild Jay Griffiths became increasingly aware of the huge differences in how childhood is experienced in various cultures One central riddle in particular captured her imagination why are so many children in Euro American cultures unhappy and why is it that children in traditional cultures seem happier In A Country Called Childhood Griffiths seeks to discover why we deny our children the freedoms of space time and the natural world Visiting communities as far apart as West Papua and the Arctic as well as the UK and delving into history philosophy language and literature she explores how children's affinity for nature is an essential and universal element of childhood It is a journey deep into the heart of what it means to be a child and it is central to all our experiences young and old
