Arizona DUI Lawyers

Arizona is known nationwide as having some of the toughest DUI laws in the country. It is unlawful for a person to drive or be in actual physical control of a vehicle in this State under any of the following circumstances:

- ▶ While under the influence of intoxicating liquor, any drug, a vapor-releasing substance containing a toxic substance, or any combination of liquor, drugs, or vapor-releasing substances if the person is impaired to the slightest degree.
- ▶ No drug is defined in section 13-3401 or its metabolite in the person's body.

- ▶ If the person has an alcohol concentration of 0.08 or more within two hours of driving or being in actual physical control of the vehicle and the alcohol concentration results from alcohol consumed either before or while driving or being in actual physical control of the vehicle.

- ▶ If the vehicle is a commercial motor vehicle, a person must obtain a commercial driver's license as defined in Section 28-3001, and the person must have an alcohol concentration of 0.04 or more.

What happens if I refuse a breathalyzer test in Arizona?

If you refuse a breathalyzer test in Arizona, your driver's license can be suspended for 12 months. This is because of Arizona's implied consent* law, which means you agree to these tests when you get your driver's license.

Can I get a DUI in Arizona if I'm sitting in a parked car?

Yes, you can get a DUI in Arizona, even if you're in a parked car. If the police think you were in control of the vehicle while impaired, like having the keys in the ignition, you could be charged.

How long does a DUI stay on my record in Arizona?

A DUI conviction stays on your criminal record permanently in Arizona. However, for purposes like insurance, it's often considered relevant for only 5 to 7 years. Contact our experienced Phoenix DUI lawyer for the legal representation you need.

License Suspension & Revocation

In Arizona, a refusal to submit to a blood or breath test triggers the suspension of your driving privileges for 12 months. However, you have a short period to request a hearing before the Arizona Department of Transportation, where you can argue your case. This hearing is a different proceeding separate from your DUI charge, but can sometimes have a significant impact on your DUI case itself.
