Radical Social Work in Practice Iain Ferguson, Rona Woodward, 2009-05-14 APPROVED BY AUTHOR Radical social work is a tradition often identified exclusively with the movement which developed in the UK in the 1970s However this much needed new textbook the first student text devoted to radical social work demonstrates that the relevance of radical approaches to contemporary social work practice have never been stronger Challenges to a neoliberal approach to social work have been gaining ground academically and with practitioners This book provides a true vision of the radical tradition and shows how it can be developed in contemporary social work Using case studies and a problem based learning approach to illustrate the type of dilemmas faced by workers in their day to day practice the book sets out the ways in which a radical social work approach can inform constructive responses It emphasises the need to understand the diverse lives of service users encouraging readers to share experience and knowledge and to discuss past and present events to build confidence in tackling injustice at individual and societal levels As many social workers are becoming disillusioned and dissatisfied with the bureaucracy and regulation in the profession this book promotes a practice that is rooted in a commitment to positive change and to social

Christians takes place through the work of the Spirit both in the church and in civic life and the church too has something to learn from wider political practices and movements This account of formation places centre stage a reckoning with the forms of exclusion and marginalisation that mar the church and yields an understanding of the church as not only ethically formative but also in constant need of being formed itself Offering a fresh vision for ecclesiology which grapples with the ethical failings of the church and takes seriously the need for the church to keep on recognising and repenting of its sins the book offers a major new contribution to discussions around Christian formation and the relationship between discipleship and ethics
