

Topic: Stellar Dynamics Lab

Introduction:

During previous students' practical experience with the Star Dynamics (SD) tool, this experiment is limited to the simulation of a single star system, the Sun, and the smallest objects that can be observed in it. This is a very limited sample of possibilities. Students' simulations of galaxy clusters provide students an insight in variety of other astronomical environments. This lab contains the simulations "My Galaxy System" developed by the Physics Education Technology (PET) group at the University of Colorado at Boulder. From 2014, it is <http://phet.colorado.edu/en/simulation/mygalaxy>.

The simulation shows multiple components under the influence of gravity on 2D (the central gravitational potential), but is restricted in the degree of gravity for this simulation that value of G can be taken as the G of the simulation units divided by the appropriate scale factors. For simplicity, we will stick to the default unit $G = 1$ in the simulation units, but that units of the simulation do not satisfy this condition.

Procedure:

Go to the "My Galaxy System" simulation on the PET website, and carefully follow the instructions. Select the main window, remove the operators, and remove some visible features going on in the main window.

Activity 1: Check familiar with the simulation

Look at the star's system. The simulation controls and settings are on the right, and the simulation itself is on the left.

- 1. Click on the star's system and the controls and settings are on the right. The position of the objects in simulation are displayed on the left-hand side.
- 2. Click on the controls and settings on the right. The controls and settings are displayed on the left-hand side.
- 3. Click on the controls and settings on the right. The controls and settings are displayed on the left-hand side.

Click on the star's system _____ units.
 Click on the controls _____ units.
 Click on the controls _____ units.
 Click on the controls _____ units.

Activity 2: Other Star Simulations

- 1. Click on the star's system and the controls and settings are on the right. The position of the objects in simulation are displayed on the left-hand side.
- 2. Click on the controls and settings on the right. The controls and settings are displayed on the left-hand side.

Click on the star's system _____ units.
