Yet who Ice was and where she came from was an enigma she adamantly concealed. When they were 19 Bennet demanded she entrust her secrets to him or he'd move on. Every year since he met her she'd disappeared at the end of September. After Bennet left her he'd worried she wouldn't come back within two weeks the way she always had before. His worst fear materialized when she didn't return. Now at 20 Bennet is the new deputy sheriff in Erie County. Still grieving a year after her disappearance he's floored when Ice reappears. As they fall in love all over again September is approaching rapidly. Bennet is compelled to solve the mystery of Ice. The deeper he delves the more certain he is that the hole the Mino Miskwi elders tore in the veil between the living and the dead a century ago has created a maelstrom of twisted horror. How can he possibly save the woman he loves from an entity that wears the name of creation's first murderer, bears an immortal seal, and made a pact with the devil himself.

Though Rox loved him deeply as a friend she was in love with another man and he'd never really had a shot there despite his relentless loyalty. When she announces her wedding William knows it's long past time for him to stop wishing for the moon but more than that he realizes for the first time that he'd set his heart on an unavailable woman purposely. He's lived his life on the principle of Better to not love and lose what you never had to begin with and You can't be hurt by anything you haven't invested yourself in and he can't deny it's done little beyond keep him lonely.

Lisa knows there's something criminal going on, but Pete refuses to get involved in private domestic matters. In her own sleuthing, Lisa discovers that not only has Jerome taken out an immense life insurance policy on his dying wife, but he's been married twice before, in both cases to terminally ill women.
