Artisans And Fair Trade Crafting Development:

Artisans and Fair Trade Mary A. Littrell, Marsha A. Dickson, 2012-03 Addresses the cultural conditions under which artisan work provides a feasible income alternative to other employment options Offers a methodology for assessing the socio economic impacts of fair trade artisan work After agriculture and tourism artisan work provides the next most significant source of income in many developing countries Yet because of its image as a soft or frivolous industry some politicians and development professionals question whether the handcraft sector is worthy of investment An opposing view holds that the creation of sustainable employment opportunities for poor people and a positive alternative to mass production outweighs the costs Until now the debate has been hampered by a lack of industry data The apparel group MarketPlace Handwork of India serves as the perfect case study to provide this missing information Like many fair trade companies it has dual goals to generate income in the global marketplace and foster the empowerment of the low income workers who run and staff the business In conducting interviews with MarketPlace s artisans managers and founders Littrell and Dickson produced an in depth socio economic audit of the group over time The result Artisans and Fair Trade provides a quantitatively and qualitatively illuminating study of fair trade impacts and a methodology that is sure to inform current assessment practices in social entrepreneurship and business social responsibility

Artisans and Fair Trade Mary Ann Littrell, Marsha Ann Dickson, 2010 Much has been written about the role of artisan production in promoting socio economic development especially for poor women but there is surprisingly little empirical work that documents the outcomes of artisan and craft work especially under fair trade conditions Artisans and Fair Trade helps close the gap Sue Ellen M Charlton Professor of Political Science Colorado State University and author Comparing Asian Politics and Women in Third World Development Provides a vivid portrayal of the lives and aspirations of women handicraft workers in India and reveals how fair trade relations can strengthen individual and collective capabilities Laura T Reynolds Co Director Center for Fair Alternative Trade and Professor Sociology Department Colorado State University An inspirational case study of a fair trade textile group in Mumbai set in the context of the broader ethical certification movement Quantitative and qualitative studies of the artisans lives emphasizes the impact that collaborative production and direct market access has on these remarkable women Charlotte Opal co author Fair Trade Market Driven Ethical Consumption and Standards Committee Fairtrade Labelling Organizations FLO Presents a thorough thoughtful and compelling assessment of the impacts of fair trade practices on the artisans who form its base hopefully it will bring increased support for cultural industries and decent work for the creative and skilled artisans of the world Judy Prater Project Director Kala Raksha Vidhyalaya After agriculture and tourism artisan work provides the next most significant source of income in many developing countries Yet because of its image of a soft or frivolous industry some politicians and development professionals question whether the handcraft sector is worthy of investment An opposing view holds that the creation of sustainable employment opportunities for poor people and a positive alternative to mass production outweighs the costs Until now the debate has been hampered by a lack of industry data The apparel group MarketPlace Handwork of India serves as the perfect case study to provide this missing information Like many fair trade companies it has dual goals to generate income in the global marketplace and foster the empowerment of the low income workers who staff the business In conducting interviews with MarketPlace s artisans managers and founders Littrell and Dickson produced an in depth socio economic audit of the group over time The result Artisans and Fair Trade provides a quantitatively and qualitatively illuminating study of fair trade impacts and a methodology that is sure to inform current assessment practices in social entrepreneurship and business social responsibility Handbook of Research on Fair Trade Laura T. Reynolds, Elizabeth A. Bennett, 2015-02-27 Fair trade critiques the historical inequalities inherent in international trade and seeks to promote social justice by creating alternative networks linking marginalized producers typically in the global South with progressive consumers typically in the global North Rethinking Displacement: Asia Pacific Perspectives Ruchira Ganguly-Scrase, Kuntala Lahiri-Dutt, 2016-04-08 This book responds to the need to explore the multitude of interconnected factors causing displacements that compel people to move within their homelands or traverse various borders in the contemporary world that is characterised by extensive and rapid movements of people It addresses this need by bringing together historical and contemporary accounts and critical examinations of the displaced by articulating the commonalities in their lived experiences It accomplishes the task of charting a new path in displacement studies by offering a number of studies from interdisciplinary and diverse methodological approaches comprising ethnographic and qualitative research and literary interpretations to emphasise that although the forms and conditions of mobility are highly divergent individual experiences of displacement and placelessness offer a critical challenge to the artificial categorisations of people s movements Each chapter adds insights into the different configurations of displacement and placement and offers fresh interpretations of migration and dislocation in today s rapidly changing world The contributors critically examine a variety of displacement processes and experiences in the context of war tourism neoliberal policies of development and the impact of various agro forestry policies They focus on a range of countries enabling a thorough comparative analysis in terms of scope and range of examples and methods of analysis This book makes an original contribution to the growing body of literature on displacement and will appeal to a wide readership including advanced undergraduates and graduate students and professors in disciplines such as human geography development studies sociology and anthropology regional studies and comparative impact assessment The Handbook of Fashion Studies Sandy Black, Amy de la Haye, Joanne Entwistle, Regina A. Fair Trade Ariana Agrios,2019-12-15 Fair trade is intended to help producers in developing countries achieve better working and trading conditions while maintaining certain environmental standards This is achieved through arrangements with distributors around the world With the influx of fair trade goods on grocery store shelves and restaurant menus one would assume an overall positive trend in trade conditions is occurring However numerous concerns continue to surround fair trade as readers will learn They will consider whether it benefits all developing countries and markets equally and analyze the extent to which it is effective at protecting the environment They will develop intelligent opinions on which conditions will make trade as fair as possible

Women's Activism, Feminism, and Social Justice Margaret A. McLaren, 2019 A wide range of issues besieges women globally including economic exploitation sexist oppression racial ethnic and caste oppression and cultural imperialism This book builds a feminist social justice framework from practices of women's activism in India to understand and work to overcome these injustices The feminist social justice framework provides an alternative to mainstream philosophical frameworks that promote global gender justice for example universal human rights economic projects such as microfinance and cosmopolitanism McLaren demonstrates that these frameworks are bound by a commitment to individualism and an abstract sense of universalism that belies their root neo liberalism Arguing that these frameworks emphasize individualism over interdependence similarity over diversity and individual success over collective capacity McLaren draws on the work of Rabindranath Tagore to develop the concept of relational cosmopolitanism Relational cosmopolitanism prioritizes our connections while crucially acknowledging the reality of power differences Extending Iris Young's theory of political responsibility McLaren shows how Fair Trade connects to the economic solidarity movement The Self Employed Women's Association and MarketPlace India empower women through access to livelihoods as well as fostering leadership capabilities that allow them to challenge structural injustice through political and social activism Their struggles to resist economic exploitation and gender oppression through collective action show the vital importance of challenging individualist approaches to achieving gender justice The book is a rallying call for a shift in our thinking and practice towards reimagining the possibilities for justice from a relational framework from independence to interdependence from identity to intersectionality and from interest to socio political imagination
