demonstrated that aftereffects occur not only for low level properties of stimuli such as motion color or orientation but also for high level properties Many studies have proven that high level proprieties of the stimuli e g gender identity ethnicity or age of a face or a voice are sensitive to this phenomenon It has been shown for example that the prolonged exposure to a female or male face produces a gender misperception in the opposite direction when an androgynous face is shown after the adapter Furthermore recent studies have also shown that aftereffects are not strictly contingent upon the physical features that make up stimuli but they seem to run across the high level proprieties subjects are adapted to These evidences are supported by cross category adaptation studies which underlie how aftereffects occur even across stimuli that do not share physical features e g bodies and faces but that instead share common higher level properties such as gender Given the growing body of research focused on adaptation and aftereffects in high level perception at the boundaries with perceptual learning attention and cognition the purpose of this topic is to provide a picture of the state of the art relative to the specific phenomena of adaptation in high level perceptual processing
