The Case for

Affirmative Action on Campus Eboni M. Zamani-Gallaher, Denise O'Neil Green, David O. Stovall, M. Christopher Brown

II, 2023-07-03 Marshalls the arguments for affirmative action Offers strategies for action Why is affirmative action under attack What were the policy's original purposes and have they been achieved What are the arguments being arrayed against it And for all stakeholders concerned about equity and diversity on campus what's the way forward politically legally and practically The authors explore the historical context the philosophical and legal foundations of affirmative action present contemporary attitudes to the issue on and off campus and uncover the tactics and arguments of its opponents They conclude by offering strategies to counter the erosion of affirmative action change the basis of the discourse and coordinate institutional support to foster inclusive college environments and multi ethnic campus communities This book analyzes the ideological and legal construction of colorblind legislation that has led to the de facto exclusion of people of color from institutions of higher education It addresses the role of the courts in affecting affirmative action in higher education as a workplace and place of study It documents the under representation of collegians of color and presents research on student opinion on race based policies at two and four year institutions It details the pervasiveness of the affirmative action debate across educational sectors and the status of race among myriad factors considered in college admissions Finally it considers affirmative action as a pipeline issue and in the light of educational policy

Race and Human Rights Curtis

Stokes, 2008-10-16 The terrorist attacks against U S targets on September 11 2001 and the subsequent wars in Afghanistan and Iraq sparked an intense debate about human rights According to contributors to this provocative book the discussion of human rights to date has been far too narrow They argue that any conversation about human rights in the United States must include equal rights for all residents Essays examine the historical and intellectual context for the modern debate about human rights the racial implications of the war on terrorism the intersection of racial oppression and the national security state Others look at the Pinkerton detective agency as a forerunner of the Federal Bureau of Investigation the role of Africa in post World War II American attempts at empire building and the role of immigration as a human rights issue

Controversies in Affirmative Action James A. Beckman, 2014-07-23 An engaging and eclectic collection of essays from leading scholars on the subject which looks at affirmative action past and present analyzes its efficacy its legacy and its role in the future of the United States This comprehensive three volume set explores the ways the United States has interpreted affirmative action and probes the effects of the policy from the perspectives of economics law philosophy psychology sociology political science and race relations Expert contributors tackle a host of knotty issues ranging from the history of affirmative action to the theories underpinning it They show how affirmative action has been implemented over the years discuss its legality and constitutionality and speculate about its future Volume one traces the origin and evolution of affirmative action Volume two discusses modern applications and debates and volume three delves into such areas as international practices and critical race theory Standalone essays link cause and effect and past and present as they tackle intriguing and important questions When does affirmative action become reverse discrimination How many decades are too many for a temporary policy to remain in existence Does race or gender based affirmative action violate the equal protection of law guaranteed by the Fourteenth Amendment In raising such issues the work encourages readers to come to their own conclusions about the policy and its future application

New Frontiers in Forensic Linguistics Monwabisi Ralarala, Russell Kaschula, Georgina Heydon, 2019-06-25 The field of forensic linguistics is a niche area that has not enjoyed much participation from the African continent The theme of language and the law in this book is one that straddles two important aspects of the legal history of South Africa in particular and how it has impacted on the country's legal and education systems The declaration by the United Nations of 2019 as The International Year of Indigenous Languages is opportune not only for the launch of this book but for what its research content tells us of the strides taken in ensuring access to justice for all citizens of the world in a language they understand The contributions by authors in this book tell the story of many African citizens and those hailing from beyond our borders who straddle the challenges of linguistic and legal pluralism in courtrooms across their respective countries It is our hope that the contributions made in this book will assist in ensuring human rights become a reality for global citizens where indigenous voices have not been heard and that these citizens will be free to give their testimonies in a language of their choice and that they may be heard and understood

Should Race Matter? David Boonin, 2011-11-14 In this book philosopher David Boonin attempts to answer the moral questions raised by five important and widely contested racial practices slave reparations affirmative action hate speech restrictions hate crime laws and racial profiling Arguing from premises that virtually everyone on both sides of the debates over these issues already accepts Boonin arrives at an unusual and unorthodox set of conclusions one that is neither liberal nor conservative color conscious nor color blind Defended with the rigor that has characterized his previous work but written in a more widely accessible style this provocative and important new book is sure to spark controversy and should be of interest to philosophers legal theorists and anyone interested in trying to resolve the debate over these important and divisive issues

Navigating the Academic Career Victor N. Shaw, 2013-03-01 There is an urgent need to provide academic professionals with individual institutional and contextual accounts of their careers and career making endeavors An individual account makes academicians think about what they do and how they might do it better An institutional account makes academicians reflect upon the organizational environment in which they function and ponder what they might do to improve it A contextual account connects academicians and their work to knowledge the knowledge enterprise and the larger social structure so that they know and understand the impact they and their career making efforts have on themselves academia and general social processes This book examines academic careers and career making activities with respect to their main aspects milestones and general pathways In content it divides into four identifiable parts Part I focuses on professional preparation It examines education degree reeducation job search and job change Part II centers on organizational employment It investigates position research teaching service and tenure Part III revolves around professional networking It looks into publication conference presentation application for grants and awards and membership in academic associations Part IV rises above specific issues It explores general career pathways and overall scholarly identity

In View of Academic Careers and Career-Making Scholars Victor N. Shaw, 2008-03-01 This volume connects career making to the general social context in which it takes place careermaking individuals to the large institutional establishment in which they operate and specifically career academicians to the overall knowledge enterprise from which they draw their intellectual inspiration on which they build their career achievements and to which they contribute their personal talents The main purpose is to explore what academic institutions the knowledge enterprise and the society as a whole can and ought to do to enhance productivity facilitate performance and improve experience of individual academicians in their career making endeavor Although various innovative ideas are presented to improve normal procedures or standard processes throughout academia answers to this focal question often lie in different levels of organizational units involved in academic operation That is what should a department do for its faculty a college for its departments a university for its colleges an association for its member organizations or a government for its academic institutions in the best interest of the latter Similarly although reformative measures are proposed to the attention of established entities or institutionalized systems change within the existing situation or practice to a large degree depends upon how people in various social roles relate to each other in attitude as well as in behavior when they perform their specific job In other words what should a professor do for graduate students a senior scholar for junior colleagues a chair for faculty members a dean for chairs a university chancellor for deans an editor for authors or an association president for the general membership from the due perspective of the latter The logic or legitimacy of examining this focal question and its organizational unit and social role is clear a shining academician owes much to the support of his or her assistants students and followers a rising university builds on the productivity of its individual divisions and a thriving knowledge enterprise depends upon the success of individual career making scholars Beyond its own functionality and success by division of labor the higher level or the larger system has an inescapable responsibility to ensure that individual players or components therein grow develop and perform to the best of their potential In content this volume consists of sixteen chapters Chapter 1 identifies main pathways and stages in academic careers Chapters 2 5 focuses on the career process exploring major requirements that an academician has to work on and fulfill in his or her career making endeavor These requirements include educational preparation job search institutional placement and professional networking Chapters 6 15 centers on the career structure examining essential elements that a scholar has to build and maintain in his or her career identity These elements range from the academic degree position publication teaching presentation service grants awards and membership in academic associations to tenure The last chapter capitalizes on the curriculum vitae as a miniature of the academic personality that a career professional must present to the community of scholarship
