After Post Structuralism Interdisciplinarity And Literary Theory Rethinking Theory:

After Poststructuralism Nancy Easterlin, Barbara Riebling, 1993 After Poststructuralism Interdisciplinary and Literary Theory challenges the premises of and suggests new alternatives to the more extreme approaches in current literary theory The essays collected here examine the trend of theorizing in interdisciplinary studies from the perspective of more rigorous research methodologies with the aim of establishing the validity of interdisciplinary literary studies and broadening the field of inquiry The collection is divided into three groups The first examines the question of what interdisciplinarity has meant in literary studies in the last twenty years the reasons for its ascension as a trend and the inherent theoretical flaws in certain poststructuralist positions The second explores the relationship of theory and practice while the third group looks ahead to the rich possibilities for thinking and working in practical new directions

Humanism Betrayed Graham Good, 2001 In Humanism Betrayed Graham Good offers a defence of liberal humanism against the illiberal trends political and intellectual that dominate today's university He uses the McEwen Report episode at the University of British Columbia to illustrate the current political climate in universities showing how due process was neglected in favour of ideological inquisition The intellectual trends Good discusses include what he calls the New Sectarianism which rejects individuality in favour of collective identities based on race gender and sexual preference Presentism which rejects the notion of history as a continuous narrative in favour of seeing the past as interpretable in any way that suits the political interests of the present and a Hermeneutic of suspicion in which literary texts are seen as masks for discreditable political motives Good demonstrates that these trends culminate in the prison like carceral vision of Michel Foucault and his followers the view that culture is ideology and that culture does not free humans but incarcerates them Good contrasts this view with the liberal vision of culture and society represented by Northrop Frye concluding with an analysis of the relationship between anti humanist theory among academics and the managerial practices of university administrations which he argues neglect or reject basic humanistic values such as free individuality aesthetic greatness and autonomous inquiry

King Lear and the Naked Truth Judy Kronenfeld, 1998 Opening the play up to the implications of these contexts and this interpretive theory she reveals much about Lear's English Reformation religious culture and the state of contemporary criticism

After Poststructuralism Rosi Braidotti, 2014-09-11 The end of the Cold War revitalised continental philosophy and more particularly interest in it from outside philosophy After Poststructuralism Transitions and Transformations analyses the main developments in continental philosophy between 1980-1995 a time of great upheaval and profound social change The volume ranges across the birth of postmodernism the differing traditions of France Germany and Italy third generation critical theory radical democracy postcolonial philosophy the turn to ethics feminist philosophies the increasing engagement with religion and the rise of performativity and post analytic philosophy Analyses of the major figures are integrated within the discussion After Poststructuralism reveals how continental philosophy fuelled by an intense ethical and political desire to reflect
