

The book cover features a central rectangular area of aged, yellowish-brown paper that appears to be torn and layered over a blue background. The blue background, visible at the edges and through the paper's tears, depicts a sky with soft, white clouds. The title is printed in a black, serif, all-caps font on the paper. The text is arranged as follows: 'AFTER' and 'SILENCE' on the top line, 'RAPE' and '&' on the second line, 'MY' and 'JOURNEY' on the third line, and 'BACK' on the fourth line. A decorative horizontal line is positioned below 'BACK'. The author's name, 'NANCY VENABLE RAINE', is printed in a smaller, black, serif, all-caps font at the bottom of the paper area.

A Dented Image Alison Wertheimer, 2008-07-02. Every year 8 500 people in the UK will have a subarachnoid haemorrhage of whom about 50 per cent will survive this traumatic brain injury which often occurs without warning. Survivors can make a good neurological recovery but the psychosocial impact can be longer lasting. Drawing from her own experience of surviving a subarachnoid haemorrhage together with other people's journeys of recovery and recent research findings, Alison Wertheimer covers themes of recovery, leaving neurocare and early days of recovery, looking for help, physical sensory and cognitive effects, the emotional impact of subarachnoid haemorrhage, the survivor's relationship with family and friends, returning to work, what helped the survivors with their recovery, subarachnoid haemorrhage as a life-changing event. A Dented Image will be of interest to a wide-ranging audience: survivors and their families and friends, health professionals working with people recovering from acute brain injury in hospital and community-based services including doctors, nurses, psychologists, physiotherapists, occupational therapists, and other members of rehabilitation teams. It may also be of interest to people recovering from other traumatic illnesses or injuries.

Motherloss Lynn Davidman, 2002-04-09. Lynn Davidman has written a courageous and important book about the impact of losing one's mother at an early age. Courageous because this is painful material, no one who reads it can help but recall their own mother's passing, even if not at an early age, and important because it seems there are few if any other books like it. Virginia Olesen, University of California, San Francisco. This is an interesting, important, well-written book on a profoundly moving subject. Barbara Katz Rothman, author of Genetic Maps and Human Imaginations. This is an important contribution to our understanding of the social construction of personal loss. It is an absorbing read and a vivid, often poignant description of the response to mother loss. Motherloss is a real find for anyone interested in the importance of mothering. Arlene Kaplan Daniels, Northwestern University. Sociology should focus on the most important human experiences, and Lynn Davidman gives us a sensitive account of the experience of losing one's mother. She shows that a sociology focused on meaning and identity best enables us to understand the personally unique experience of this loss for any individual without losing the shared cultural and social context in which such loss is also given form.
