The Fiction of Gloria Naylor Maxine Lavon Montgomery, 2010-11-26 The Fiction of Gloria Naylor is one of the very first critical studies of this acclaimed writer Including an insightful interview with Naylor and focusing on her first four novels the book situates various acts of insurgency throughout her work within a larger framework of African American opposition to hegemonic authority But what truly distinguishes this volume is its engagement with African American vernacular forms and twentieth century political movements In her provocative analysis Maxine Lavon Montgomery argues that Naylor constantly attempts to reconfigure the home and homespace to be more conducive to black self actualization thus providing a stark contrast to a dominant white patriarchy evident in a broader public sphere Employing a postcolonial and feminist theoretical framework to analyze Naylor's evolving body of work Montgomery pays particular attention to black slave historiography tales of conjure trickster lore and oral devices involving masking word play and code switching the vernacular strategies that have catapulted Naylor to the vanguard of contemporary African American letters Montgomery argues for the existence of home as a place that is not exclusively architectural or geographic in nature She posits that in Naylor's writings home exists as an intermediate space embedded in cultural memory and encoded in the vernacular Home closely resembles a highly symbolic signifying system bound with vexed issues of racial sovereignty as well as literary authority Through a reinscription of the subversive frequently clandestine acts of resistance on the part of the border subject those outside the dominant culture Naylor recasts space in such a way as to undermine reader expectation and destabilize established models of dominance influence and control Thoroughly researched and sophisticated in its approach The Fiction of Gloria Naylor will be essential reading for scholars and students of African American American and Africana Literary and Cultural studies Jet ,1989-03-20 The weekly source of African American political and entertainment news

Donald J. Greiner, 1993 Donald J Greiner's provocative new study evaluates the fiction of ten contemporary female novelists to ask questions about gender relations in American fiction Looking closely at the reaction of female writers to what Greiner describes as a central paradigm of American literature men bonding in the wilderness in an attempt to escape women and the social restrictions they represent Greiner contends that female novelists have not only adopted the venerable model but also adapted it so that women venture into the wilderness while excluding men from the quest Greiner first shows how such contemporary white male novelists as Frederick Busch John Irving and Larry Woiwode modify the literary model established by Cooper Melville and Twain to include women in the bonding process He then argues that recent female novelists are not so eager to allow males into the wilderness or to bond with them Rather than facilitate a closing of the gender gap many contemporary female writers insist on separating the sexes Greiner frames his analysis with discussions of prominent feminist literary theorists and feminist psychologists including Carolyn Heilbrun Rachel Brownstein Nancy Chodorow Janice Raymond and Judith Kegan Gardiner From close readings of recent novels by Gloria Naylor Marianne Wiggins Joan Didion Diane Johnson Marilynne Robinson Mona Simpson Hilma Wolitzer Meg Wolitzer Joan Chase and Lisa Alther Greiner finds three significant differences in the way contemporary female novelists employ the quest plot the patriarchal text is not repudiated but revised to accommodate female characters who readily accept the traditional masculine call to the quest once outside the bounds of society female bonds do not always hold males are excluded from the bonding process To contrast the gender exclusivity favored by contemporary female writers Greiner ends his study with a discussion of bonding as portrayed by contemporary male novelist Douglas Ungar The Trip Bijay Behera, 2022-06-13 Two friend Akash and Bijay went to

Nagpur to meet their old friend Anand They met after a long time and recalled their old college days They had fun together and enjoy it a lot but it became a twist when Anand was leaving Nagpur forever and the railway platform was the witness of their love separation between Anand and his girlfriend Neha Though the trip was memorable it still has some sweet and bitter memories which no one wants to recall The Lever of Riches Joel Mokyr, 1992-04-09 In a world of supercomputers genetic engineering and fiber optics technological creativity is ever more the key to economic success But why are some nations more creative than others and why do some highly innovative societies such as ancient China or Britain in the industrial revolution pass into stagnation Beginning with a fascinating concise history of technological progress Mokyr sets the background for his analysis by tracing the major inventions and innovations that have transformed society since ancient Greece and Rome What emerges from this survey is often surprising the classical world for instance was largely barren of new technology the relatively backward society of medieval Europe bristled with inventions and the period between the Reformation and the Industrial Revolution was one of slow and unspectacular progress in technology despite the tumultuous developments associated with the Voyages of Discovery and the Scientific Revolution What were the causes of technological creativity Mokyr distinguishes between the relationship of inventors and their physical environment which determined their willingness to challenge nature and the social environment which determined the openness to new ideas He discusses a long list of such factors showing how they interact to help or hinder a nation s creativity and then illustrates them by a number of detailed comparative studies examining the differences between Europe and China between classical antiquity and medieval Europe and between Britain and the rest of Europe during the industrial revolution He examines such aspects as the role of the state the Chinese gave up a millennium wide lead in shipping to the Europeans for example when an Emperor banned large ocean going vessels the impact of science as well as religion politics and even nutrition He questions the importance of such commonly cited factors as the spill over benefits of war the abundance of natural resources life expectancy and labor costs Today an ever greater number of industrial economies are competing in the global market locked in a struggle that revolves around technological ingenuity The Lever of Riches with its keen analysis derived from a sweeping survey of creativity throughout history offers telling insights into the question of how Western economies can maintain and developing nations can unlock their creative potential Selected from the Women of Brewster Place Gloria Naylor,1991

Narratives of Community Roxanne Harde,2009-03-26 Narratives of Community draws together essays that examine short story sequences by women through the lenses of Sandra Zagarell s theoretical essay Narrative of Community Reading texts from countries around the world the collection s twenty two contributors expand scholarship on the genre as they employ diverse theoretical models to consider how female identity is negotiated in community or the roles of women in domestic social and literary community Grouped into four sections based on these examinations the essays demonstrate how Zagarell s theory can provide a point of reference for multiple approaches to women s writing as they read the semiotic systems of community While narrative of community provides an organizing principle behind this collection these essays offer critical approaches grounded in a wide variety of disciplines Zagarell contributes the collection s concluding essay in which she provides a series of reflections on literary and cultural representations of community on generic categorizations of community and on regionalism and narrative of community as she returns to theoretical ground she first broke almost twenty years ago Overall these essays bring their contributors and readers into a community engaged with a narrative genre that inspires and affords a rich and growing tradition of scholarship With Narratives of Community editor Roxanne Harde offers a wealth of critical essays on a wide variety of women s linked series of short stories essays that can be seen overall to explore the genre as a kind of meeting house of fictional form and meaning for an inclusive sororal community The book itself joins a growing critical community of monographs and essay collections that have been critically documenting the rise of the modern genre of the story cycle to a place second only to the novel But more than simply joining this critical venture Narratives of Community makes a major contribution to studies in the short story feminist theory women s studies and genre theory Its introduction and essays should prove of enduring interest to scholars and critics in these fields as well as continue highly useful in the undergraduate and graduate classrooms Gerald Lynch Professor of English University of Ottawa The introduction by Prof Harde and the 20 essays in the book dialogue with Sandra Zagarell's proposed paradigm narratives of community which other scholars have called short story cycles or story sequences Zagarell's proposal organically blends a generic model with a thematic concern to explain how women writing community often turn to a particular narrative style that itself supports the literary creation of that community Harde and the volume contributors appropriate this brilliant and engaging proposal in the context of other crucial discussions of the genre notably Forest Ingram's germinal study J Gerald Kennedy's work and those by Robert Luscher Maggie Dunn and Anne Morris James Nagel Gerald Lynch and I'm honored to note my own study on Asian American short story cycles to expand the range of the critical discussion on the form The quality and diversity of the essays remind us that there is still much work that can be done in the area of genre studies The volume emphasizes an important caveat to one vital misconception that although writers like James Joyce or Sherwood Anderson are thought to be the precursors or even inventors of the form women's sequences by Sara Orne Jewett and Elizabeth Gaskell among others actually predate the work of the male writers This fact suggests that the development of the form as a genre that attends to specific perspectives or creative formulations of and by women needs to be considered in depth The temporal scope of the volume is therefore a vital contribution to scholarship on the form as is the diversity of the writers analyzed Indeed the examination of narratives by writers from different countries and that focus on characters from different time periods racial religious or ethnic communities and social class impels a multilayered reading of the texts that inevitably promotes a nuanced understanding of the project of each of the writers a project that connects issues of individuality and community in varied and often surprising ways The essays thus critically explore the notion of community in its myriad associations with the individual and as a crucial site not only for women's action upon the world but also for her creative endeavors The essays in the volume revisit familiar texts Naylor's The Women of Brewster Place Cisneros's The House on Mango Street Kingston's The Woman Warrior Welty's The Golden Apples Munro's The Lives of Girls and Women among others but offer new perspectives on the way form interacts with issues of women's communities and women creating community in these works Significantly it also offers readings on texts that have not been analyzed in detail from this perspective Gaskell's Cranford or Woolf's A Haunted House for example thus contributing to a continuing conversation about the ways women write The juxtaposition of the familiar and the new expand the paradigms of current criticism not only on the story cycle but also on women's writing in general Rocio Davis Professor of Literature University of Navarre Roxanne Harde's forthcoming volume Narratives of Community Women's Short Story Sequences provides an abundant collection of varied responses to Sandra Zagarell's longstanding call for further in depth exploration of the genre that Zagarell christened the narrative of community in her 1988 essay linking non novelistic narrative form with representations of female experience As Harde observes such narratives of community overlap significantly with the growing canon of unified but discontinuous collections of autonomous stories that critics have variously labeled as the short story cycle sequence composite The essays in her collection examine a rich variety of such works by women extending the scholarship in this area Harde s ample collection of essays presents a concerted and diverse exploration of the implications of the short story sequence form as a representation of women s lives as part of and in conflict with membership in a community Overall Harde s volume is a welcome addition to current scholarship on the short story sequence bringing in a variety of new voices and perspectives to the community of scholars who have engaged in the exploration of this paradoxical evolving and increasingly popular genre

The Other Side of Terror Erica R. Edwards, 2021-08-10 WINNER 2022 John Hope Franklin Prize given by the American Studies Association HONORABLE MENTION 2022 Gloria E Anzald a Book Prize given by the National Women s Studies Association Reveals the troubling intimacy between Black women and the making of US global power The year 1968 marked both the height of the worldwide Black liberation struggle and a turning point for the global reach of American power which was built on the counterinsurgency honed on Black and other oppressed populations at home The next five decades saw the consolidation of the culture of the American empire through what Erica R Edwards calls the imperial grammars of blackness This is a story of state power at its most devious and most absurd and at the same time a literary history of Black feminist radicalism at its most trenchant Edwards reveals how the long war on terror beginning with the late Cold War campaign against organizations like the Black Panther Party for Self Defense and the Black Liberation Army has relied on the labor and the fantasies of Black women to justify the imperial spread of capitalism Black feminist writers not only understood that this would demand a shift in racial gendered power but crafted ways of surviving it The Other Side of Terror offers an interdisciplinary Black feminist analysis of militarism security policing diversity representation intersectionality and resistance while discussing a wide array of literary and cultural texts from the unpublished work of Black radical feminist June Jordan to the memoirs of Condoleezza Rice to the television series Scandal With clear moving prose Edwards chronicles Black feminist organizing and writing on the other side of terror which tracked changes in racial power transformed African American literature and Black studies and predicted the crises of our current era with unsettling accuracy

Women's Work Courtney Thorsson, 2013-06-17 In Women s Work Courtney Thorsson reconsiders the gender genre and geography of African American nationalism as she explores the aesthetic history of African American writing by women Building on and departing from the Black Arts Movement the literary fiction of such writers as Toni Cade Bambara Paule Marshall Gloria Naylor Ntozake Shange and Toni Morrison employs a cultural nationalism practiced by their characters as women s work that defines a distinct contemporary literary movement demanding attention to the continued relevance of nation in post Black Arts writing Identifying five forms of women s work as organizing dancing mapping cooking and inscribing Thorsson shows how these writers reclaimed and revised cultural nationalism to hail African America
