

Broken wires

Like any electrical system, the roof mechanism relies on wires to tie the various bits together. Since the roof moves, these wires have to move, and after many thousands of operations, the movement can cause the wires to break. When this happens, the electronics in the roof notice and stops the roof. Repair the wires, test the mechanism, and it should all work again. In the mine roof, there are two bundles of wires which seem very prone to breaking.

Roof boom

The roof boom runs from the ECU in the front, through the roof storage compartment, up the right-hand main hinge, toward the rear of the car along the main roof structure, then all the way forward inside the roof between the inner and outer skins. It connects to the front and rear and the roof sensors on the left-hand track. The boom also carries the wires for the heated rear window and the rear door position sensors on the right-hand hydraulic ram. The boom tends to break just by the main roof hinge on the right-hand side of the car where it has to flex twice on each side of the roof. The boom is protected by a black rubber boot which has to be removed before the wires can be inspected. If broken, a repair can be effected by lengthening the wires slightly and using heat-shrink sleeving to insulate the joints.

Roof boom

The other wiring boom which often seems to break is on the left-hand side of the car and runs from the front to the rear body of the car, just behind the left main head lamp. A connector block and an earth stud - the wires usually seem to break here. If the wires fail, the first symptom is usually that the central locking stops working in the front, and the heated rear window is disabled because the car's ECU can't tell whether the roof is open or closed. Movement of the roof is also usually inhibited - but not stopped!
