

1. The first step in the process is to identify the problem. This involves a thorough examination of the system and a determination of the cause of the problem. Once the problem has been identified, the next step is to develop a plan of action. This plan should outline the steps that will be taken to resolve the problem and should be approved by the appropriate authority. Once the plan has been approved, the next step is to implement the plan. This involves carrying out the steps outlined in the plan and monitoring the progress of the work. Finally, the last step is to evaluate the results of the work. This involves comparing the actual results with the expected results and determining whether the problem has been resolved.
