Foundations for Learning Laurie L. Hazard, Jean-Paul Nadeau, 2009 For courses in First Year Experience College Success and Study Skills The focus of Foundations for Learning is on academic adjustment for first year college students with personal development issues seamlessly integrated into the academic emphasis The theme is claiming an education and taking responsibility for one s own education What is most unique about this text is that it addresses both the attitudinal variables and personality traits that affect college achievement like locus of control conceptions of intelligence and intellectual curiosity in relation to specific study related behaviors such as text annotation and active listening Students are pushed to consider how each skill set perception and attitude connects with and influences the other Other unique features include an acute awareness of first year student needs an intellectual approach and a tight framework Foundations for Learning is primarily focused on the development of academic adjustment issues and metacognitive strategies as they naturally unfold during the first semester as opposed to primarily focusing on social adjustment issues or issues that aren't immediately relevant such as career development Finally it's both challenging and accessible Students appreciate that the text doesn't talk down to them with simplified vocabulary they also appreciate it is to the point and practical
