

A cinematic still from a movie showing three men in dark suits and ties standing on a city street at night. The man on the left is older, wearing glasses, and looking upwards. The man in the middle is looking down at something in his hands. The man on the right is looking towards the other two. The background is a blurred cityscape with tall buildings and streetlights.

English for Everybody Grace Moncrieff Miller,1924 Visual Writing Alex Baratta,2010-07-12 Considering the fact that the academic essay continues to be widely used as an assessment tool within education there is a need for students to develop their skills in this area However it is often the case that students perceive instruction in academic writing if it is offered at all as boring This book addresses these two issues First the book can be used by students themselves even in the absence of academic writing classes as a self help guide from which they can develop their knowledge of academic writing and subsequent proficiency Second by discussing the components of academic writing in terms such as film which are familiar to today's generation students are enabled to relate to the material better and see what might have been perceived as dull from a brand new perspective Visual learners in particular will enjoy the analogous link between films and essays and students today are arguably more visually literate than previous generations being exposed to visuals on a daily basis through text message iconography computer games and the Internet The visual instruction provided in turn helps to facilitate mental visuals in students minds from which their knowledge of essay writing can start to develop

Linguistic Diversity and Discrimination Sender Dovchin, Qian Gong, Toni Dobinson, Maggie McAlinden, 2023-12-11 This collection explores the ways in which women in academia from culturally and linguistically diverse backgrounds mediate the negotiation of linguistic discrimination and linguistic diversity in higher education using autoethnography to make visible their lived experiences The volume shows how women in academia from CaLD backgrounds particularly those living or working in the Global South draw on their multivalent complex linguistic backgrounds and cultural repertoires to cope with and manage linguistic and systemic gender discrimination In adopting autoethnography as its key methodology the book encourages these academics to write themselves beyond the conventions from which women in academia have traditionally been forced to speak and write The collection features perspectives from women across geographic contexts sub fields and levels of experience whose stories are not often told putting at the fore their narratives lived experiences and career trajectories in mediating issues around power ideology language policy social justice teaching and learning and identity construction In so doing the book challenges the wider field to expand the borders of discussions on linguistic discrimination and higher education institutions to critically engage with these issues This book will be of interest to scholars in applied linguistics sociolinguistics and cultural studies
