Grammar Nonsense and What To Do about It Hugh Dellar,Andrew Walkley, Do you hate teaching some aspects of grammar Do you ever feel frustrated that your students just don't get it Well in Grammar Nonsense Andrew Walkley and Hugh Dellar argue that you shouldn't really blame yourself The fault lies largely with the way grammar rules and methods have been passed down through training and published material and become established as the way of doing things a straightjacket that we need to escape from Through an entertaining series of rants and meditations on all things grammatical from the use of the word grammar to the horror of teaching verb patterns they aim to pull apart rules which we give without thinking and to question approaches to practice that are seen as a must Along the way you'll not only learn how published materials get written and about ideas such as the transformation fallacy and grammar olives but you'll also get plenty of practical suggestions as to what to do about all this nonsense

Enhancements and Limitations to ICT-Based Informal Language Learning: Emerging Research and Opportunities Ahmed, Rashad,Al-kadi, Abdu,Hagar, Trenton,2020-01-03 In today's modernized world digital technology has taken the forefront in all aspects of society including education Students have access to numerous electronic devices which has made online learning materials highly accessible. These technological impacts have blurred the distinction between formal and informal language learning methods. Informally learned English has lost proficiency when assessing student performance. Sizable research is necessary to study and understand the informal methods of language learning using technology. Enhancements and Limitations to ICT Based Informal Language Learning: Emerging Research and Opportunities is a pivotal reference source that provides vital research on the implementation of technological opportunities within informal language teaching methods along with the drawbacks that limit its efficiency. While highlighting topics such as acculturation, student perception, and autonomous applications, this publication explores how learners perform ICT-based activities beyond the classroom and assesses the linguistic gains generated by informal ICT uses. This book is ideally designed for teachers, IT consultants, educational software developers, researchers, policymakers, and academic professionals seeking current research on technological techniques within second language learning and teaching. The Big Beasts of English Grammar: An Exploration of Form and Function in Conversations Christian Jones, Graham Burton, 2024-12-15. What do we really know about how the grammar topics that seem to dominate language teaching are used in conversation? In this book, the authors explore some of the big beasts of English grammar: those familiar structures like conditionals and reported speech that are often emphasised in syllabuses and textbooks. Drawing on a corpus of conversation data, the book provides new insights into how these structures actually function in real-life conversations, revealing how grammar teaching often overlooks key contextual uses. Aimed at teachers, researchers, and curriculum designers, the book encourages readers to rethink grammar explanations and instruction. It challenges long-standing rules and assumptions, also offering practical ideas on how to better incorporate grammar into lessons that focus on spoken English. Covering important grammar areas such as modal verbs, quantifiers, and comparatives, it's a valuable resource for those interested in how grammar operates in real-world dialogue.

An Autoethnography of Teaching English in Japan: Bridging Life and Academia Sanae Oda-Sheehan, 2022-01-20. Based on her professional and personal experiences in education as well as in business, Sanae Oda-Sheehan PhD came to realize that there may be several problematic gaps hindering learning effectiveness in the Japanese EFL context. In exploring possibilities to bridge those gaps, she proposes the framework called the Pedagogical Trinity: the integration of L2 pragmatics and grammar pedagogy to promote the implementation of communicative language teaching. This book shares her experiences in exploring how to bring about such integration and bridge those gaps by utilizing autoethnography. Autoethnography is a burgeoning and promising approach in the qualitative research field in which researchers use themselves as the research subject to better understand sociocultural complexities through the connectivity between self and others. By employing the autoethnographic approach and analyzing in depth face-to-face interviews and journal entries, Oda-Sheehan reflected on her teaching practices and her own identity formation to explore the critical factors for the integrative approach. Through this life-sized portrait of the research project, she obtained interpretive insights that show how critical it is for teachers to have an awareness of their multiple identities and perspectives long term visions and readiness for necessary transformation This book meticulously crafts and demonstrates how autoethnography can be utilized as a research method to merge analytic rigor and creative dynamics Through the connectivity in an autoethnographic orientation readers may find themselves in the stories unfolded in the chapters and be guided to reflect on their own experiences and endeavors In that way what is presented in this book may become readers own stories giving them the strength to go forward in life This book can provide a platform of open dialogue to explore approaches to bridge life and academia collaboratively

Composition and Temperature Effects on Aluminoborosilicate Glasses Structure and Properties Jingshi Wu, 2011 This work studies the effects of compositional and temperature variations on the structure and properties of aluminoborosilicate glasses Two groups of aluminoborosilicate glasses one that has lower boron content and another that has higher boron content have been studied The structural changes were mainly observed with high field B 11 Al 27 and Na 23 magic angle spinning MAS nuclear magnetic resonance NMR spectroscopy In these glasses boron is either three coordinate BO3 or four coordinate BO4 aluminum exists predominately as four coordinate species but there is a small amount of five coordinate aluminum 5 Al The compositional study focused on the effect of the cation field strength of the network modifiers on the glass structure by varying the ratio of the two network modifiers CaO and Na2O Increasing the ratio of CaO to Na2O dramatically lowers the fraction of four coordinated boron N4 increases 5 Al and increases the fraction of non bridging oxygens NBO which was calculated based on the boron and aluminum structural information However variations in these fractions are not linear with respect to the average cation field strength Na 23 spectra reveal that the ratio of bridging to non bridging oxygens in the coordination shell of Na increases with an increasing ratio of CaO to Na2O in Ca rich glasses These changes can be understood by the tendency of higher field strength modifier cations to facilitate the concentration of negative charges on NBO in their local coordination environment systematically converting BO4 to BO3 The effect of temperature on the structure was studied by two ways cooling the glass forming melts at different rates to sample the glass structure at different fictive temperature and using high temperature in situ NMR The abundances of BO3 and NBO increase with increasing fictive temperature suggesting that the reaction BO4 logical equivalence BO3 NBO shifts to the right with increasing temperature The observed temperature dependence of the abundance of BO4 species allows us to estimate the enthalpy of reaction Delta H which is closely related to the amount of NBO in the glass In situ high T B 11 MAS NMR was used to observe chemical exchange between BO3 and BO4 species over the timescale of microseconds to seconds The timescale of BO3 BO4 exchange from NMR data lowercase Tau NMR appears to be decoupled from that of the macroscopic shear relaxation process lowercase Tau s derived from the viscosity data however at higher temperatures lowercase Tau s approaches lowercase Tau NMR The decoupling at lower temperature may be related to intermediate range compositional heterogeneities and or fast modifier cation diffusivities which trigger unsuccessful network exchange events
