

Traditional Instruction	Example	Differentiated Instruction	Example
A single teaching approach for the entire class	The math teacher works sample word problems on the overhead.	A variety of approaches of lesson delivery	Math teacher works the first step then instructs students to discuss the next steps with a partner.
Student practice looks the same for the entire class.	Students work the odd problems from their textbook on their own with the teacher answering questions.	Students have access to the content through a variety of learning styles.	Students in small groups cycle through centers to tackle word problems visually, with math manipulatives and through journal writing.
Students who have already mastered the material wait until the rest of the class catches up.	A student who worked ahead in the textbook spends the next half of class reading an off-topic book to kill time.	Students who have mastered the material are given "challenge assignments" which deepen their understanding of the content.	These students fill in a graphic organizer which promotes higher level thinking while the rest of the class does basic skill practice of the new concept.
Students have little choice in what they study.	Students who are learning to write research papers are assigned topics randomly by the teacher.	Students are given choice in their areas of study whenever possible.	Students choose a topic for their papers which is of interest to them from within guidelines established by the teacher.
Students are all expected to have the same outcomes and progress is judged using the same guidelines for everyone.	Students are assigned a five-paragraph essay, and those who do not perform up to the set standard fail.	The teacher modifies the grading rubric to take into account varying levels of readiness for this assignment among students.	A student struggling with writing would be given a modified version of the assignment which would still be challenging but more appropriate for his current skill set.
