

3500/06 Weatherproof Housing

Bently Nevada* Asset Condition Monitoring

Description

The Bently Nevada 3500/06 Weatherproof Housing protects the 3500 System against adverse environmental conditions, such as excessive moisture, dirt, grime, and unclean air. An optional purging system protects the rack from outside elements.

The housing is specially designed for system installations that require environmental protection or where safety standards mandate air purging to meet approval agency requirements. The weatherproof housing is available in either epoxy-coated steel or 304 stainless steel and is compatible with a full-size rack (rack mount), mini-rack (rack mount), and internal barrier I/O modules.

When using the weatherproof housing, you should take precautions to avoid operating the monitors above their temperature specifications. Due to the heat dissipated by the 3500 monitoring system, you should not use the weatherproof housing in direct sunlight.

Application Alert

Exceeding the specified operating temperature of the 3500 system may degrade the reliability of the monitoring system and potentially ignite some gases.
