V. Linden,2007 Terrorism sadly seems here to stay and to stay with a vengeance It turns out that the United States was not prepared for it and now must play catch up In doing so even agreement on how to define terrorism is in doubt and what to do about it seems beyond comprehension at the moment This volume presents a broad cross section of analyses of weaknesses and actions in the ongoing battle including cyberterrorism international terrorism and societal implications of terrorism

Air Passenger Screening U.s. Government Accountability Office,2017-08-04 TSA which screens or oversees the screening of over 650 million air passengers per year has processes for addressing complaints about air passengers screening experience at checkpoints but concerns have been raised about these processes The Conference Report accompanying the Consolidated Appropriations Act 2012 directed TSA to ensure the traveling public is aware of these processes and GAO to review TSA s policies and procedures for resolving passenger complaints This report addresses the extent to which TSA has 1 policies and processes to guide the receipt of air passenger screening complaints and use of this information to monitor or enhance screening operations 2 a consistent process for informing passengers about how to make complaints and 3 complaint resolution processes that conform to independence standards To address these objectives GAO reviewed TSA documentation analyzed complaint data from October 2009 through June 2012 and interviewed TSA officials from headquarters offices and six airports selected for type of security among other things The airport interviews are not generalizable but provide insights
