Wildflower Girl Marita

Conlon-McKenna, 2013-08-01 The second book in the famine trilogy At seven Peggy made a terrifying journey through famine stricken Ireland Now thirteen and determined to make a new life for herself she sets off alone across the Atlantic to America Will she ever see her family again An extraordinary story of courage independence and adventure The other books in the Famine trilogy are Under the Hawthorn Tree and Fields of Home A study guide to Under the Hawthorn tree is also available

Discourses of Home and Homeland in Irish Children's Fiction 1990-2012 Ciara Ní Bhroin, 2021-05-22 In the context of changing constructs of home and of childhood since the mid twentieth century this book examines discourses of home and homeland in Irish children's fiction from 1990 to 2012 a time of dramatic change in Ireland spanning the rise and fall of the Celtic Tiger and of unprecedented growth in Irish children's literature Close readings of selected texts by five award winning authors are linked to social intellectual and political changes in the period covered and draw on postcolonial feminist cultural and children's literature theory highlighting the political and ideological dimensions of home and the value of children's literature as a lens through which to view culture and society as well as an imaginative space where young people can engage with complex ideas relevant to their lives and the world in which they live Examining the works of O R Melling Kate Thompson Eoin Colfer Siobhán Parkinson and Siobhán Dowd Ciara Ní Bhroin argues that Irish children's literature changed at this time from being a vehicle that largely promoted hegemonic ideologies of home in post independence Ireland to a site of resistance to complacent notions of home in Celtic Tiger Ireland

Fields of Home Marita Conlon-McKenna, 2013-08-16 The final book in the famine trilogy For Eily Michael and Peggy the memory of the famine is still strong But Mary Brigid Eily's first child has the future to look forward to What kind of future is it Ireland is in turmoil with evictions burnings secret meetings fights over land Eily and her family may be thrown off their farm Michael may lose his job in the big house And Peggy in America feels trapped in her role as a maid Will they ever have land and a home they can call their own Eily Michael and Peggy have once shown great courage Now this courage is called on again The other titles in the Famine trilogy are Under the Hawthorn Tree and Wildflower Girl A study guide to Under the Hawthorn tree is also available Critical Approaches to Food in Children's Literature Kara K. The Politics and Poetics of Irish Children's Literature Nancy Watson, 2009 Although the work of many contemporary Irish writers for children is often complex and sophisticated there is currently very little critical analysis to do it justice The aim of this book is to redress that situation and to prove that the best writing for children is no less complex and well written than the best adult fiction and offers valuable material for theoreticians With a detailed examination of selected texts by six Irish writers for children the book explores the reciprocal relationship between the different time and place of the child reader and the complexity and multiplicity of the world of the adult writer It suggests that putting the different forms of experience in dialogue with each other promotes a new understanding because it allows for other points of view and other ways of seeing This book also suggests that the way in which these writers implement the potential of the child reader's different perspective refutes the idea of the impossible relation between adult and child The opening chapter explores the attempt to re create childhood and adolescence in a range of Irish memoir and fiction An Index to Historical Fiction for Children and Young People Janet Fisher,1994 A reference guide to historical fiction for children and young people School Library Journal ,2001 The School Librarian ,2005 The Presence of the Past in Children's Literature Ann Lucas,2003-09-30 Time is one of the most prominent themes in the relatively young genre of children's literature for the young like adults want to know about the past This book explores how children's writers have treated the theme and concept of time The volume starts with the application of literary theory and additionally analyzes examples of the juvenile historical novel In doing so it also examines changing fashions in criticism and publishing and the pressure they exert on writers It then considers literary adaptations of myths and archetypes constructions of history in children's literature colonial and postcolonial children's fiction and the treatment of the past in the postmodern era The book looks at literature from around the world and the expert contributors are from diverse countries and backgrounds While the book looks primarily at literature of the 19th and 20th centuries it considers a broad range of historical material treated in works from that period Included are discussions of such topics as Joan of Arc in children's literature the legacy of Robinson Crusoe colonial and postcolonial children's literature the Holocaust and the supernatural International in scope the volume examines history and collective memory in Portuguese children's fiction Australian history in picture books Norwegian children's literature and literary treatments of the great Irish famine Books Ireland ,2001 Ten Years of Irish Publishing ,2000 CD ROM contains bibliographic listings with title author publisher pages price ISBN and date Wildflower Girl Marita Conlon-McKenna,1992 The second book in the famine trilogy At seven Peggy made a terrifying journey through famine stricken Ireland Now thirteen and determined to make a new life for herself she sets off alone across the Atlantic to America Will she ever see her family again An extraordinary story of courage independence and adventure The other books in the Famine trilogy are Under the Hawthorn Tree and Fields of Home Bulletin of the Center for Children's Books ,1997-02 Faoin Sceach Gheal Marita Conlon-McKenna,2012-12-01 Since its first publication in 1990 Marita Conlon McKenna's Under the Hawthorn Tree has broken all records for sales of an Irish published children's book has won national and international awards and has been translated into Danish Swedish Dutch French German Japanese as well as selling editions in the US It tells the story of three children left to fend for themselves during the horror of the Great Irish Famine Now for the first time the book is being made available in the Irish language as Faoin Sceach Gheal translated by M ire Nic
