Wild Seed Patternmaster 1 By Octavia E Butler:

Our Mothers, Our Powers, Our Texts Teresa N. Washington, 2005-06-27 Washington writes supple and thoughtful prose and creatively integrates African and African derived terminology which never distract the reader I consider Our Mothers Our Powers Our Texts not only a brilliant study but also a model to be emulated Ouseynou B Traore William Patterson University of Lagos is a Yoruba word that signifies a spiritual power of vast potential as well as the human beings who exercise that power Although both men and women can have it its owners and controllers are women the literal and cosmic Mothers who are revered as the gods of society Because of its association with female power its invisibility and profundity it is often misconstrued as witchcraft However as Teresa N Washington points out in Our Mothers Our Powers Our Texts it is central to the Yoruba ethos and cosmology Not only does it underpin the concepts of creation and creativity but as a force of justice and retribution it is essential to social harmony and balance As Africans were forced into exile and enslavement they took it with them and continued its work of creating destroying harming and healing in the New World Washington seeks out its subversive power of creation and re creation in a diverse range of Africana texts from both men and women from both oral and contemporary literature and across space and time She guides readers to an understanding of the symbolic methodological and spiritual issues that are central to important works by Africana writers but are rarely elucidated by Western criticism She begins with an examination of the ancient forms of it in Yoruba culture which creates a framework for innovative readings of important works by Africana writers including Zora Neale Hurston Toni Morrison Ben Okri Wole Soyinka Jamaica Kincaid and Ntozake Shange This rich analysis will appeal to readers of Africana literature African religion and philosophy feminist studies and comparative literature

Psience Fiction Damien Broderick, 2018-05-12 Science fiction has often been considered the literature of futuristic technology fantastic warfare among the stars or ruinous apocalypses on Earth The last century however saw through John W Campbell the introduction of psience fiction which explores such themes of mental powers as telepathy precognition of the future teleportation etc and symbolic machines that react to such forces The author surveys this long ignored literary shift through a series of influential novels and short stories published between the 1930s and the present This discussion is framed by the sudden surge of interest in parapsychology and its absorption not only into the SF genre but also into the real world through military experiments such as the Star Gate Program

American

Bodies Tim Armstrong, 1996-12 Most human bodies have two arms two legs hands feet a head Yet the body as we perceive it is ultimately a cultural construct defined by the values and meanings each individual and each culture ascribes to it Beyond its corporeal realities the implications of the body how we adorn alter heal and please it are potentially endless limited only by the manner in which we frame it Revealing how the human body has served as a metaphor for social process the anthology unveils the body as intrinsically configured by politics gender racial categories fears of pollution and commercial forces which exploit and regulate it Historical snapshots of American bodies over the past two and a half centuries the essays in this volume cover such diverse subjects as sailor tattoos maritime cannibalism in the early 1800 s birth control rest cures for neurasthenia and more recently anorexia boxing cyberpunk and plastic surgery Drawing from history literary and cultural studies and film studies American bodies is an eclectic stimulating collection that will challenge many fundamental beliefs about our physical form

Contemporary African American Fiction Robert Butler,1998 The book argues that from its very beginnings African American journey narratives are distinctively non teleological that is they typically resist being directed toward an end point in a particular place and instead exult in movement through indefinite space They view movement as intrinsically valuable a process of endless becoming rather than a carefully mapped journey resulting in a completed state of being rooted in a fixed place As such these journeys are a compelling metaphor of the American desire for the new life consisting of unlimited personal development The writers examined in this book offer a unique set of variations on this kind of open journey
