Aging And The Meaning Of Time A Multidisciplinary Exploration:

Aging and the Meaning of Time Susan McFadden, Robert Atchley, 2006-05-03 As we confront our own mortality we might ask What has my long life meant and how have the years shaped me or How long must I suffer Such questions reflect time consciousness the focus of this classic volume The authors from diverse disciplines in gerontology act as guides in the exploration of the realms of time in later life and their meanings As they examine how the study of time can give new meanings to aging they also consider the religious and spiritual questions raised when human beings consider the temporal boundaries of life This volume honors Melvin Kimble's contributions to gerontology and represents a new direction in the study of religion spirituality and aging

The Routledge International Handbook of Lifelong Learning Peter Jarvis, 2009-05-07 As lifelong learning grows in popularity few comprehensive pictures of the phenomenon have emerged This volume is designed to demonstrate precisely what is happening around the world and to do so within a systematic framework showing the complexity of the phenomenon

Ageing, Disability and Spirituality Elizabeth MacKinlay, 2008-02-15 This collection examines theological and ethical issues of ageing disability and spirituality with an emphasis on how ageing affects people who have mental health and developmental disabilities The book presents ways of moving towards more effective relationships between carers and older people with disabilities

The Prolongation of Life Ilya Ilyich Metchnikoff, 2004-01-08 Three chief evils that hang over us are disease old age and death To study and control senescence Metchnikoff proposed the establishment of a new scientific discipline he named gerontology In this classic text on the prolongation of life Metchnikoff suggests that science should be encouraged and helped in every possible way in its task of removing the diseases and habits that now prevent human life from running its normal course and his belief is that were the task accomplished the great cause of pessimism would disappear Metchnikoff was able to proclaim himself an optimist and found in biological science for the present generation a hope or at the least an end towards which to work and for future generations a possible achievement of that hope From the Introduction by Gerald Gruman MD PhD The Routledge International Handbook of Learning Peter Jarvis, Mary H. Watts, 2012 As our understanding of learning focuses on the whole person rather than individual aspects of learning so the process of learning is beginning to be studied from a wide variety of perspectives and disciplines This handbook presents a comprehensive overview of the contemporary research into learning it brings together a diverse range of specialities with chapters written by leading scholars throughout the world from a wide variety of different approaches The International Handbook of Learning captures the complexities of the learning process in seven major parts Its 54 chapters are sub divided in seven parts Learning and the person senses cognitions emotions personality traits and learning styles Learning across the lifespan Life wide learning Learning across the disciplines covering everything from anthropology to neuroscience Meaning systems interpretation Learning and disability Historical and contemporary learning theorists Written by international experts this book is the first comprehensive multi disciplinary analysis of learning packing a diverse collection of research into one accessible volume Aging and Loss Jason Danely, 2015-01-02 By 2030 over 30% of the Japanese population will be 65 or older foreshadowing the demographic changes occurring elsewhere in Asia and around the world What can we learn from a study of the aging population of Japan and how can these findings inform a path forward for the elderly their families and for policy makers Based on nearly a decade of research Aging and Loss examines how the landscape of aging is felt understood and embodied by older adults themselves In detailed portraits anthropologist Jason Danely delves into the everyday lives of older Japanese adults as they construct narratives through acts of reminiscence social engagement and ritual practice and reveals the pervasive cultural aesthetic of loss and of being a burden Through first hand accounts of rituals in homes cemeteries and religious centers Danely argues that what he calls the self in suspense can lead to the emergence of creative participation in an economy of care In everyday rituals for the spirits older adults exercise agency and reinterpret concerns of social abandonment within a meaningful cultural narrative and by reimagining themselves and their place in the family through these rituals older adults in Japan challenge popular attitudes about eldercare Danely's discussion of health and long term care policy and community welfare organizations reveal a complex picture of Japan's aging society Intimacy and Ageing Torbjörn Bildtgård, Peter Öberg, 2018-12-12 To begin new relationships in later life is increasingly common in large parts of the Western world This timely book addresses the gap in knowledge about late life repartnering and provides a comprehensive map of the changing landscape of late life intimacy Part of the Ageing in a Global Context series the book examines the changing structural conditions of intimacy and ageing in late modernity How do longer lives changing norms and new technologies affect older people's relationship careers their attitudes to repartnering and in the formation of new relationships Which forms do these new unions take What does a new intimate relationship offer older men and women and what are the consequences for social integration What is the role and meaning of sex By introducing a gains perspective the book challenges stereotypes of old age as a period of loss and decline It also challenges the image of older people as conservative and instead presents them as an avant garde that often experiment with new ways of being together

Reading Our Lives William L. Randall,Elizabeth

McKim,2008-06-03 Against the background of Socrates insight that the unexamined life is not worth living Reading Our Lives The Poetics of Growing Old investigates the often overlooked inside dimensions of aging Despite popular portrayals of mid and later life as entailing inevitable decline this book looks at aging as potentially a process of poiesis a creative endeavor of fashioning meaning from the ever accumulating texts memories and reflections that constitute our inner worlds At its center is the conviction that although we are constantly reading our lives to some degree anyway doing so in a mindful matter is critical to our development in the second half of life Drawing on research in numerous disciplines affected by the so called narrative turn including cognitive psychology neuroscience and the psychology of aging authors Randall and McKim articulate a vision of aging that promises to accommodate such time honored concepts as wisdom and spirituality one that understands aging as a matter not merely of getting old but of consciously growing old

Keeping the Faith in Late Life

Susan A. Eisenhandler,2003 Based on Eisenhandler's qualitative research study of men and women sixty years and older this volume provides a sociological narrative of religious belief that has been sustained and sometimes changed over the course of life Through extensive interviews Eisenhandler explores older adults personal engagement with religion the role of socialization in retaining faith in late life and the extent to which older adults participate in religious behavior and find religious beliefs relevant to their present life Questions at the core of Eisenhandler's research include Do older adults today f

Psychology, Religion, and Spirituality James M. Nelson,2009-02-17 Over a century ago psychologists who were fascinated with religion began to study and write about it Theologians and religious practitioners have responded to this literature producing a fascinating dialogue that deals with our fundamental understandings about the human person and our place in the world This book provides an introduction to the important conversations that have developed out of these interchanges The dialogue between psychology and religion is difficult to study for a number of reasons First it requires knowledge of both psychology and religion People with a background in psychology often lack a solid understanding of the religious traditions they wish to study and theologians may not be up to date on the latest developments in psychology Second it requires conceptual tools to organize the material and understand the basic problems involved in any attempt to connect the science of psychology with religion These concepts can be found in many places for instance in the writings of philosophers of science but they are complex and often hard to follow for those without a proper theological and philosophical background Finally authors who write on the topic come to the study of psychology and religion from a variety of academic and personal backgrounds This makes for wonderful diversity in conversations but it makes understanding and mastery of the material quite difficult
