The Minister Who Wore Many Hats Barbara H. Wells, 2009-10 Improving Maternal and Reproductive Health in South Asia Sameh El-Saharty, Sadia Chowdhury, Naoko Ohno, Intissar Sarker, 2016-11-29

South Asia Region SAR has decreased maternal mortality ratio MMR by 65 percent between 1990 and 2013 which was the greatest progress among all world regions Such achievement implores the question What made SAR stand out against what is predicted by standard socioeconomic outcomes Improving Maternal and Reproductive Health in South Asia Drivers and Enablers identifies the interventions and factors that contributed to reducing MMR and improving maternal and reproductive health MRH outcomes in SAR In this study the analytical framework assumes that improving MRH outcomes is influenced by a multitude of forces from within and outside the health system and considers factors at the household and community levels as well as interventions in other sectors and factors in the enabling environment The analysis is based on a structured literature review of the interventions in SAR countries relevant international experience and review of the best available evidence from systematic reviews The focus of the analysis is mainly on assessing the effectiveness of interventions The findings from this study indicate that the most effective interventions that prevent maternal mortality are those that address the intra partum stage the point where most maternal deaths occur and include improving skilled birth attendance coverage increasing institutional delivery rates and scaling up access to emergency obstetric care There is also adequate evidence that investing in family planning to increase contraceptive use also played a key role during the inter partum phase by preventing unwanted pregnancies and thus averting the risk of maternal mortality in SAR countries Outside the programmatic interventions the levels of household income women s education and completion of secondary education of girls were also strongly correlated with improved MRH outcomes Also there is strong evidence that health financing schemes both demand and supply side and conditional cash transfer programs were effective in increasing the uptake of MRH services The study points out to many other interventions with different degrees of effectiveness The study also identified four major reasons for why SAR achieved this progress in MMR reduction The best practices and evidence of what works synthesized in this study provide an important way forward for low and middle income countries toward achieving the health related Sustainable Development Goals The American Journal of Nursing ,1909 Together We Live William Arthur Cooper,1962
