Reading Across the Life Span Steven R. Yussen, M Cecil Smith, 2012-12-06 One of the liveliest areas of research in the social sciences is reading Scholarly activity is currently proceeding along a number of different disciplinary lines addressing a multitude of questions and issues about reading A short list of disciplines involved in the study of reading would include linguistics psychology education history and gerontology Among the important questions being addressed are some long standing concerns How are reading skills acquired What are the basic components of reading skill How do skilled readers differ from less skilled ones What are the best ways to approach instruction for different groups of readers young beginning readers poor readers with learning problems and teenage and adult illiterates How can reading skill best be measured what standardized instruments and observational techniques are most useful The large volume of textbooks and scholarly books that issue forth each year is clear evidence of the dynamic nature of the field The purpose of this volume is to survey some of the best work going on in the field today and reflect what we know about reading as it unfolds across the life span Reading is clearly an activity that spans each of our lives Yet most accounts of it focus on some narrow period of development and fail to consider the range of questions that serious scholarship needs to address for us to have a richer understanding of reading The book is divided into four parts Literacy Assessment and Intervention for Classroom Teachers Beverly A.

DeVries,2023-04-25 The Sixth Edition of this comprehensive resource helps future and practicing teachers recognize and assess literacy problems while providing practical effective intervention strategies to help every student succeed DeVries thoroughly explores all major components of literacy offering an overview of pertinent research suggested methods and tools for diagnosis and assessment intervention strategies and activities and technology applications to increase students skills Substantively updated to reflect the needs of teachers in increasingly diverse classrooms the Sixth Edition addresses scaffolding for English language learners and the importance of using technology and online resources It presents appropriate instructional strategies and tailored teaching ideas to help both teachers and their students The valuable appendices feature assessment tools instructions and visuals for creating and implementing the book s more than 150 instructional strategies and activities plus other resources New to the Sixth Edition Up to date and in line with national state and district literacy standards this edition covers the latest shifts in teaching and the evolution of these standards New material on equity and inclusive literacy instruction understanding the science of reading using technology effectively and reading and writing informational and narrative texts New intervention strategies and activities are featured in all chapters and highlight a stronger technology component Revamped companion website with additional tools videos resources and examples of teachers using assessment strategies Embracing Diversity in the Learning Sciences Yasmin B.

Kafai,2012-10-12 More than a decade has passed since the First International Conference of the Learning Sciences ICLS was held at Northwestern University in 1991 The conference has now become an established place for researchers to gather The 2004 meeting is the first under the official sponsorship of the International Society of the Learning Sciences ISLS The theme of this conference is Embracing Diversity in the Learning Sciences As a field the learning sciences have always drawn from a diverse set of disciplines to study learning in an array of settings Psychology cognitive science anthropology and artificial intelligence have all contributed to the development of methodologies to study learning in schools museums and organizations As the field grows however it increasingly recognizes the challenges to studying and changing learning environments across levels in complex social systems This demands attention to new kinds of diversity in who what and how we study and to the issues raised to develop coherent accounts of how learning occurs Ranging from schools to families and across all levels of formal schooling from pre school through higher education this ideology can be supported in a multitude of social contexts The papers in these conference proceedings respond to the call Learning Disabilities H. Lee Swanson, Barbara K. Keogh, 2012-11-12 This volume has been developed as a direct result of a conference sponsored by the International Academy for Research in Learning Disabilities held at the University of California at Los Angeles The text provides a review and critique of current research in the areas of intelligence social cognition achievement and subtyping as they relate to learning disabilities In addition the concept that social behavior is an aspect of intelligence and the relationship between language and reading are discussed in detail by noted experts Research in Education, 1971 School Psychology Review, 2005 Expository Discourse in Children, Adolescents, and Adults Marilyn A. Nippold, Cheryl M. Scott, 2013-03-07 School success in the 21st century requires proficiency with expository discourse the use and understanding of informative language in spoken and written modalities This occurs for example when high school students read their textbooks and listen to their teachers lectures and later are asked to demonstrate their knowledge of this complex topic through oral reports and essay examinations Although many students are proficient with the expository genre others struggle to meet these expectations This book is designed to provide information on the use and understanding of expository discourse in school age children adolescents and young adults Recently researchers from around the world have been investigating the development of this genre in typical students and in those with language disorders Although many books have addressed the development of conversational and narrative discourse by comparison books devoted to the topic of expository discourse are sparse This crossdisciplinary volume fills that gap in the literature and makes a unique contribution to the study of language development and disorders It will be of interest to a range of professionals including speech language pathologists teachers linguists and psychologists who are concerned with language development and disorders
