Advances in Marine Environmental Protection: Challenges, Solutions and Perspectives Mehran Idris Khan, Yen-Chiang Chang, Wen-Hong Liu, 2025-04-29 Environments have no boundaries and no borders Managing oceanic environments particularly the threats and risks of pollution should also consider the shared responsibility of all coastal states Emerging issues for oceanic pollution governance include global changes like rising temperature ocean acidification but also disturbances of ecosystem functioning by plastic and pollution by other emerging contaminants for example noise pollution and deep sea mining These call for efficient and sustainable prevention and restoration strategies such as such as efficient urban and industrial sewage treatment plants efficiently administered transnational marine protected areas and among others sustainable aquaculture extensive small scale fisheries Environmental protection warrants the development of interrelationships between marine sciences relevant industries and ocean governance developing internationally accepted rules and regulations for sustainable ocean management This Research Topic will explore possible new domains of ocean governance and the marine environment from the interdisciplinary perspectives of the rule of law including the international agreement on equal conventions the Convention on Facilitation of International Maritime Traffic the Convention on the International Regulation for Preventing Collisions at Sea and International Convention for the Prevention of Pollution from Ships MARPOL

Ecologically Based Integrated Pest Management Opende Koul, Gerrit W. Cuperus, 2007-01-08 Integrated pest management IPM is a sustainable approach to manage pests through biological cultural physical and chemical means in order to minimize economic and environmental injury caused by such pests Any comprehensive IPM programme requires an understanding of the ecological relationships between crops pests natural enemies and the environment This book presents a series of review chapters on ecologically based IPM Topics covered range from the ecological effects of chemical control practices to the ecology of predator prey and parasitoid host systems

Introduction to Agroecology C.D. Caldwell, Songliang Wang, 2021-01-19 This textbook applies basic concepts of ecology to address critical issues regarding food and agricultural systems The intended audience is first year undergraduate students it may also benefit higher level undergraduates with an interest in agriculture and ecology The level of science and general knowledge reflects this target group The text is divided into five sections with 22 chapters in all Each chapter has its own student learning objectives The first two sections Context of Agroecology and Basics of Agroecosystems provide a sound basis for the further study of agriculture from an ecological standpoint Section 3 Digging Deeper into Agroecosystems explores the related issues of hunger wastes climate change and biodiversity It is suggested that students study these three sections before proceeding to section 4 or 5 Section 4 Application of Agroecosystem Concepts introduces students to agricultural production and challenges them to use the concepts and ideas from the first three sections to critically evaluate such production systems Section 5 Agroecosystem Management brings the coverage full circle by examining global solutions and opportunities from both a scientific and social economic standpoint Particularly these last four chapters offer both food for thought and inspiration for further work The book's goal is not to provide a comprehensive literature review rather it offers extensive data on and a stimulating analysis of the topic
