Totals
	Customer Counts	Sales Amounts

This form is a great tool if used properly. On the hour every hour, record the customer count and sales on the form above. Then add up your totals at the end of the day. You can use this form to project the following week's sales and customer counts.

These forms will also help you determine how many employees you will need to schedule on any given shift or day. Refer to the Labor Chart (Q-007) to determine your scheduling needs based on customer counts. Management should watch the number of employees on the clock related to customer counts and sales to keep the staff on duty in line with the sales.

In the comment section, record information such as events, weather conditions, power outages etc.... record anything that will cause fluctuations in sales.
