What is Congress?

The United States Congress is the legislative (lawmaking) branch of our federal government. Congress meets in Washington, D.C. to make federal laws—laws that apply to the entire country. Congress is bicameral, which means it is made up of two chambers: the Senate and the House of Representatives. Each chamber includes elected officials from all fifty states. Congress was created by the Constitution, and that document describes how this branch of government works.

Legislate: a verb that means "to make laws"

Legislator: a person who makes laws

Legislative: an adjective that means "lawmaking" (the legislative branch is the lawmaking branch)

Legislation: a written document that is or may become a law

Why Congress?

When the Constitution was written, the goal was to create a government that represented the people. Congress works toward this goal by creating laws that reflect the needs and wants of United States citizens. The work Congress does serves the nation as a whole. Senators help by representing the needs of their entire state, while members of the House (also called Representatives) work for the people in a specific section of their state.

How does it work?

All of the instructions for Congress can be found in the first section of the Constitution, Article I. It is the longest section of the Constitution, and it covers a lot of ground. How old do you have to be to serve in Congress? How long do you get to serve? How does Congress relate to the other branches? All of this and more can be found in a close read of Article I, but this handy chart shows some of the basics!

|                   | The Senate                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             | The House of Representatives                                                                                        |

| Who qualifies?    | Senators must be at least 30, a U.S. citizen for at least nine years, and live in the state they represent.                                                                                                                                            | Representatives must be at least 25, a U.S. citizen for at least seven years, and live in the state they represent. |

| Special Duties    | The Senate approves presidential appointments, like ambassadors, judges, and cabinet members.                                                                                                                                                          | All bills that deal with raising money (like taxes) must start in the House.                                        |
| Checks & Balances | Congress can call for the impeachment of the president, pass bills over a presidential veto with 2/3 vote, and create lower federal courts. The president can veto bills from Congress and the Supreme Court can strike down laws as unconstitutional. |                                                                                                                     |
| Role in Lawmaking | A bill can start in either chamber. A bill must be approved by BOTH chambers of Congress before it can go to the president to be signed into law.                                                                                                      |                                                                                                                     |
