that currently exists in American choice law In the early 20th century there was a fairly uniform multilateralist method of choice law In the 1920s and 30s however scholars adn courts began to reject this method Viewed as too mechanical the method sometimes resulted in the choice of law of a state with only a tenuous connection to the controversy Currently state courts use four different approached to choice law with numerous material variations. This study rejects these approaches on normative constitutional and practical grounds Instead it advocates that courts adopt a multilateralist approach to choice of law that is forum and content neutral and that respects the rights of both individuals and states The study also argues that such an approach should satisfy a constitutional standard that requires a court not choose one state s law when another state has a significantly closer connection to controversy The proposed method consists of two parts The first part determines the states that have created legal relations applying to the dispute When more than one state has created a legal realtions applying to the dispute When more than one state has created a legal relation that applies to the controversy the second part adopts the law of the state that had the closest connection The study then applies the suggested method to numerous choice Research in Education ,1973 The Northeastern Reporter ,1897 Includes the decisions of the of law problems Supreme Courts of Massachusetts Ohio Indiana and Illinois and Court of Appeals of New York May July 1891 Mar Apr 1936 Appellate Court of Indiana Dec 1926 Feb 1927 Mar Apr 1936 Courts of Appeals of Ohio EDITED BOOK ON HUMAN RIGHTS & STATE OBLIGATIONS Dr. K.
