Every Trail Has a Story Bob Henderson, 2005-03-07 Canada is packed with intriguing destinations where heritage and landscape interact Bob Henderson captures our living history and its relationship to the land The Literary History of Saskatchewan David Carpenter, 2014-02-01 Progressions presents another batch of erudite and entertaining essays on a variety of topics covering Saskatchewan's literary development as well as tributes to some of the major contributors to that history and a pictorial glimpse into the past Writers stopped using typewriters and even moved beyond the Kaypro computer box for their compositions The Saskatchewan School of the Arts was shut down ending the Fort St. John writing experience But the Sage Hill Writing Experience quickly rose to replace it Saskatchewan literary presses really found their feet and published important and lasting books A wave of new writers joined the founders of the province's literary tradition Responding to this growth in the community the Saskatchewan Book Awards and the Saskatchewan Festival of Words in Moose Jaw came into being. The Saskatchewan writing community stormed out of the 20th Century in a frenzy of creativity and accomplishment. Essay contributors to Volume 2 include Dave Margoshes, Jeanette Lynes, Aritha Van Herk, Alison Calder and seven more. The eleven essays include such topics as To House or House Not, The New Saskatchewan Women Poets, Contemporary Nature Writing in Saskatchewan, Fort San Sage Hill and Brave and Foolish Nonconformists. In addition, literary tributes are offered for Caroline Heath, Pat Krause, Martha Blum and Max Braithwaite.

The Cambridge Companion to Canadian Literature
 Eva-Marie Kröller, 2004-02-05. This book offers a comprehensive and engaging introduction to major writers, genres and topics in Canadian literature. Contributors pay attention to the social, political and economic developments that have informed literary events. Broad surveys of fiction, drama and poetry are complemented by chapters on Aboriginal writing, francophone writing, autobiography, literary criticism, writing by women and the emergence of urban writing in a country traditionally defined by its regions. Also discussed are genres that have a special place in Canadian literature such as nature writing, exploration and travel writing and short fiction.

Quill & Quire, 2007. Facing the Crises Ljubica Matek, Jasna Poljak Rehlicki, 2014-06-26. Owing to the diverse research interests of the contributors, this collection of essays offers a varied picture of the current approaches to Anglo-American literature and culture and points to the need for a deeper understanding of current cultural, economic and social processes in the globalizing and globalized culture of the West. Because crisis seems to be the key word of contemporary Western culture, the first part of the book titled In the Face of Crises explores the implicit or explicit idea of a crisis between the real and the simulated, suggesting that one of the major issues for the contemporary man is how to deal with the virtual or with the absence of the real. Our fast-paced, technology-laden and materialist-oriented existence brings about the need to rethink our human identity, putting into perspective our relationship to technology, the impact of capitalist economy and colonial past as well as consequences of constant warfare. The second part of the book, New Perspectives on Literary Genres, analyzes forms, topics and styles in literary texts belonging to specific, sometimes marginalized genres. Literary analyses in this section also touch upon the idea of crisis, be it the crisis of understanding and redefining a particular genre or a crisis that is inherent in the controversial topic or form of the text. As a reaction to recent allegations concerning the crisis of humanities as non-profitable, this book shows that humanist research is indispensable and crucial for understanding the human condition, making this book a relevant addition to the contemporary discussion of literature and culture.

Dr. Oronhyatekha Keith Jamieson, Michelle A. Hamilton, 2016-11-05. 2016 Ontario Historical Society Joseph Brant Award Winner 2017. Speaker's Book Award Shortlisted. A man of two cultures in an era where his only choices were to be a trailblazer or get left by the wayside. Dr. Oronhyatekha, Burning Sky, born in the Mohawk nation on the Six Nations of the Grand River territory in 1841, led an extraordinary life, rising to prominence in medicine, sports, politics, fraternalism and business. He was one of the first Indigenous physicians in Canada, the first to attend Oxford.

University a Grand River representative to the Prince of Wales during the 1860 royal tour a Wimbledon rifle champion the chairman of the Grand General Indian Council of Ontario and Grand Templar of the International Order of Good Templars He counted among his friends some of the most powerful people of the day including John A Macdonald and Theodore Roosevelt He successfully challenged the racial criteria of the Independent Order of Foresters to become its first non white member and ultimately its supreme chief ranger At a time when First Nations peoples struggled under assimilative government policy and society's racial assumptions his achievements were remarkable Oronhyatekha was raised among a people who espoused security justice and equality as their creed He was also raised in a Victorian society guided by God honour and duty He successfully interwove these messages throughout his life and lived as a man of significant accomplishments in both worlds

100 Must-read Prize-Winning Novels Nick Rennison,2010-09-25 This handy pocket size guide part of the bestselling Must Read series introduces readers to the one hundred best novels that have won prestigious literary awards and provides an extended introduction to the background and history of these literary prizes More than a simple best of list the recommendations include insightful book reviews historical and literary context and cover a wide range of works of fiction

Neo-Victorian Families Christian Gutleben,2011 Tracing representations of re imagined Victorian families in literature film and television and social discourse this collection the second volume in Rodopi's Neo Victorian Series analyses the historical trajectory of persistent but increasingly contested cultural myths that coalesce around the heterosexual couple and nuclear family as the supposed normative foundation of communities and nations past and present It sheds new light on the significance of families as a source of fluctuating cultural capital deployed in diverse arenas from political debates social policy and identity politics to equal rights activism and analyses how residual as well as emergent ideologies of family are mediated and critiqued by contemporary arts and popular culture This volume will be of interest to researchers and students of neo Victorian studies as well as scholars in contemporary literature and film studies cultural studies and the history of the family Situating the nineteenth century family both as a site of debilitating trauma and the means of ethical resistance against multivalent forms of oppression neo Victorian texts display a fascinating proliferation of alternative family models albeit overshadowed by the apparent recalcitrance of familial ideologies to the same historical changes neo Victorianism reflects and seeks to promote within the cultural imaginary

Thomas King Eva Gruber,2012 Thomas King is one of North America's foremost Native writers best known for his novels including Green Grass Running Water for the Dreadful Water mysteries and for collections of short stories such as One Good Story That One and A Short History of Indians in Canada But King is also a poet a literary and cultural critic and a noted filmmaker photographer and scriptwriter and performer for radio His career and oeuvre have been validated by literary awards and by the inclusion of his writing in college and university curricula Critical responses to King's work have been abundant yet most of this criticism consists of journal articles and to date only one book length study of his work exists Thomas King Works and Impact fills this gap by providing an up to date comprehensive overview of all major aspects of King's oeuvre as well as its reception and influence. It brings together expert scholars to discuss King's role in and impact on Native literature and its processes of canonization and to offer in-depth analyses of his multifaceted body of work. The volume will be of interest to students and scholars of literature, English and Native American studies, and to King aficionados. The Book Trade in Canada, 2005. Speaking in the Past Tense Herb Wylie, 2009-10-22. Speaking in the Past Tense participates in an expanding critical dialogue on the writing of historical fiction, providing a series of reflections on the process from the perspective of those souls intrepid enough to step onto what is practically by definition contested territory. Herb Wylie from the Introduction: The extermination of the Beothuk, the exploration of the Arctic, the experiences of soldiers in the trenches during World War I, the foibles of Canada's longest serving prime minister, the Ojibway sniper who is credited with 378 wartime kills: these are just some of the people and events discussed in these candid and wide-ranging interviews with eleven authors whose novels are based on events in Canadian history. These sometimes startling conversations take the reader behind the scenes of the novels and into the minds of their authors. Through them we explore the writers' motives for writing, the challenges they faced in gathering information and presenting it in fictional form, the sometimes hostile reaction they faced after publication, and perhaps most interestingly, the stories that didn't make it into their novels. Speaking in the Past Tense provides fascinating insights into the construction of national historical narratives and myths, both those familiar to us and those that are still being written. National Plots Andrea Cabajsky, Brett Josef Grubisic, 2010-07-09. Fiction that reconsiders, challenges, reshapes, and/or upholds national narratives of history has long been an integral aspect of Canadian literature. Works by writers of historical fiction from early practitioners such as John Richardson to contemporary figures such as Alice Munro and George Elliott Clarke propose new views and understandings of Canadian history and individual relationships to it. Critical evaluation of these works sheds light on the complexity of these depictions. The contributors in National Plots: Historical Fiction and Changing Ideas of Canada critically examine texts with subject matter ranging from George Vancouver's west coast explorations to the eradication of the Beothuk in Newfoundland. Reflecting diverse methodologies and theoretical approaches, the essays seek to explicate depictions of the historical in individual texts and to explore larger questions relating to historical fiction as a genre with complex and divergent political motivations and goals. Although the topics of the essays vary widely, as a whole the collection raises and answers questions about the significance of the roles historical fiction has played within Canadian culture for nearly two centuries. Lost in the New West Mark Asquith, 2021-10-07. Lost in the New West investigates a group of writers: John Williams, Cormac McCarthy, Annie Proulx, and Thomas McGuane, who have sought to explore the tensions inherent to the West, where the distinctions between old and new myth and reality, authenticity and sentimentality are frequently blurred. Collectively, these authors demonstrate a deep-seated attachment to the landscape, people, and values of the West and offer a critical appraisal of the dialogue between the contemporary West and its legacy. Mark Asquith draws attention to the idealistic young men at the center of such works as Williams's Butcher's Crossing 1960 McCarthy's Blood Meridian 1985 and Border Trilogy Proulx's Wyoming stories and McGuane's Deadrock novels For each writer these characters struggle to come to terms with the difference between the suspect mythology of the West that shapes their identity and the reality that surrounds them They are in short lost in the new West

A History of Canadian Literature William H. New, William Herbert New, 2003 New offers an unconventionally structured overview of Canadian literature from Native American mythologies to contemporary texts Publishers Weekly A History of Canadian Literature looks at the work of writers and the social and cultural contexts that helped shape their preoccupations and direct their choice of literary form W H New explains how from early records of oral tales to the writing strategies of the early twenty first century writer reader literature and society are interrelated New discusses both Aboriginal and European mythologies looking at pre Contact narratives and also at the way Contact experience altered hierarchies of literary value He then considers representations of the real whether in documentary fantasy or satire historical romance and the social construction of Nature and State and ironic subversions of power the politics of cultural form and the relevance of the media to a representation of community standard and individual voice New suggests some ways in which writers of the later twentieth century codified such issues as history gender ethnicity and literary technique itself In this second edition he adds a lengthy chapter that considers how writers at the turn of the twenty first century have reimagined their society and their roles within it and an expanded chronology and bibliography Some of these writers have spoken from and about various social margins dealing with issues of race status ethnicity and sexuality some have sought emotional understanding through strategies of history and memory some have addressed environmental concerns and some have reconstructed the world by writing across genres and across different media All genres are represented with examples chosen primarily but not exclusively from anglophone and francophone texts A chronology plates and a series of tables supplement the commentary
